Huge Bomb Load Hits Magdeburg

LONDON, Jan. 22.—Big R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. bomber command fleets, sending a 225-ton-an-hour Anglo-American aerial bombardment of Axis Europe into its second day, dropped more than 2,240 tons of explosives on Magdeburg, one of the most important war centres in Germany, last night.

A small force of four-engine Lancasters and twin-engine Mosquitos made a simultaneous diversionary attack on Berlin, still burning from the previous night's record assault, and a third formation hit targets on the French invasion coast.

About 1,000 planes were believed to have taken part in the night's operations.

The widespread attacks cost 52 bombers, the largest loss in a single night's operations since last Aug.

28, when 58 were lost in a heavy raid on Berlin.

14 R.C.A.F. PLANES LOST

Announcing large Canadian participation in the attack, R.C.A.F. headquarters reported that 14 of the missing bombers were Canadian. The communiqué added that R.C.A.F. Mosquitos engaged in intruder operations without loss, one enemy aircraft being destroyed. The air ministry announced that

Welles Cites Americas' System for Maintaining Amicable Regional Ties

This is the eighth of a series of articles by Sumner Welles, former United States Under Secretary of State, which appear exclusively each week in The Edmonton Bulletin.—EDITOR.

By SUMNER WELLES

Former United States Under Secretary of State

In my preceding article I expressed the belief that if the preliminary international organization were to make provision for the inclusion of regional systems to operate under the supreme authority of a United Nations executive council, consisting of representatives of the major powers which must make available the force necessary to prevent war together with additional members representative of each region, many difficult practical problems could be solved more readily than if the new world organization banned all regional systems and functioned, like the League of Nations, on a strictly universal basis.

Canning Sugar Amounts Set

OTTAWA, Jan. 22.—(CP)—The prices board announced today that sugar for 1944 home canning will be made available through 10 spare "F" coupons in ration book 3 now being used by consumers.

The board said consumers will thus be provided with a standard allotment of 10 pounds of sugar per person, for home canning purposes, but households wishing to do more canning will be able to supplement this amount by using their preserves coupons for the purchase of sugar.

The special sugar coupons will be exchangeable for preserves coupons on application to local ration boards at the rate of one "F" coupon for one preserves coupon.

The first of the canning sugar coupons will become valid July 1. The "F" coupons from one to 10 will each be valid for the purchase of one pound of sugar. If all the 1944 preserves coupons also are used to obtain canning sugar the total obtained will be 23 pounds for one person.

Woman Released After Questioning In Baby's Murder

WINNIPEG, Jan. 22.—(AP)—Mrs. Molly McNiece, held on a coroner's warrant since the slaying Wednesday of a two-year-old boy in a downtown house, has been released from custody it was announced today by city police.

The boy's mother, Mrs. Marguerite Abbott, 22, still is in custody on a coroner's warrant, pending the inquest Jan. 27.

Police said Mrs. McNiece had given a satisfactory account of her movements the morning of the slaying.

Take as an example the inter-American regional system, which is today the only regional system functioning efficiently upon a sound basis.

The peoples of the Americas are convinced that this system has been of vital benefit to them and should not only continue but grow even stronger. They do not wish to see it abandoned as a necessary prerequisite to their participation in a future world organization, essential as they may believe such participation to be.

The inter-American system is based upon these great principles: the pacific solution of all disputes, recognition of the equality of sovereignty of all the twenty-one re-

Premier Denies Province's Debt Being Refunded

Premier Ernest Manning on Friday denied a report that the Alberta government had approved a 3 1/2 per cent basis for refunding the province's public debt of approximately $120,000,000.

While negotiations and conferences have taken place regarding refunding the public debt, the premier said that no plan on the basis of 3 1/2 per cent had been approved.

The Financial Post of Toronto carried the story that the Alberta government had approved a rate of 3 1/2 per cent for a refunding of the provincial debt.

LONDON, Jan. 22.—(CP)

Three ships of the Royal Canadian Navy and an R.C.A.F. coastal command aircraft joined with ships of the Royal Navy and British and United States planes in a lengthy Atlantic action to protect an important United Kingdom-bound convoy, it was announced today.

The action took place west of the Portuguese and French coasts. The convoy was attacked by German submarine packs and bombers.

The enemy aircraft damaged two British ships, the announcement said, adding that the attack was "completely frustrated."

A running battle continued intermittently for four days and three nights, and the R.C.N. corvettes Calgary and Snowberry with the R.N. Frigate Nene shared in destruction of one U-boat. Other Royal Navy ships probably sank another and damaged several.

In addition a coastal command aircraft probably destroyed one U-boat, another was believed damaged and several enemy planes were shot into the sea.

PRINCE ROBERT IN ACTION

H.M.C.S. Prince Robert, now converted into an auxiliary anti-aircraft cruiser, shared in the latter part of the action when German aircraft attacked with glider bombs.

Every effort of the Germans to launch a concentrated attack was defeated, a joint admiralty-air ministry communiqué said.

The action was first joined by Allied planes from Gibraltar and the new bases in the Azores. They drove off German planes shadowing the convoy and at night time

Hog Purchases To Be Made on Carcass Values

OTTAWA, Jan. 22.—(CP)—Agriculture Minister Gardiner announced last night that the number of grades for hogs now effective on Canadian markets will be reduced and the old procedure of establishing prices by applying discounts will be dropped.

Hogs will be purchased on the basis of carcass values in the various grades. All possible speed will be made with introduction of the new system but "some time" will be required.

The minister said, however, that a temporary arrangement has been made with the packers to put the payment of government premiums—$3 a head for grade A and $2 for B1—into effect Monday. These premiums were announced a week ago. Announcement of the revisions followed discussions between the bacon advisory committee, the advisory committee on agriculture, the Canadian meat board and the agriculture food board.

"The procedure under which a basic price was established for B1 hog carcasses and prices for other grades determined by applying discounts except in the case of grade A carcasses for which a premium was paid by the packers, will be discontinued, and

Alberta Airman Fired Destroyer With Bomb Hits

LONDON, Jan. 22.—(CP)—Flying Officer D. C. Thomson of Fort Assiniboine, Alta., set on fire one of two German destroyers found in the English Channel Thursday night, it was announced yesterday.

Thomson shook the vessel with three bomb hits that resulted in large explosions and left it blazing.

The brief air ministry communiqué and later amplification did not give results of an attack on the other destroyer, made by Thomson's mates of an R.C.A.F. Albacore squadron, Coastal Command.

One Canadian plane was lost. "Gunnery" in the destroyer opened up with everything they had but I was able to get my aircraft away without being hit," Thomson said.

W. R. Brockie Dies on Train: 56 Years Old

Prominent business man and well-known community welfare worker of this city, W. R. Brockie, president of the Edmonton Paint and Glass Company Ltd., died in his drawing room aboard a Canadian National Railway train Friday, at Portage La Prairie, Man. He was on his way east on a business trip when overcome by a heart seizure. He was 56 years old.

Born in 1888 at Fergus, Ont., he was educated at Fergus and Toronto schools. He started his career in the warehouse of Winnipeg Paint and Glass Company in 1904. After travelling for this company from 1908 to 1912, he came to Edmonton and organized the Edmonton Paint and Glass Company Ltd. He was appointed managing director of the company in 1923 and later he and his associates purchased the business and he was named president and managing director.

A prominent member of the Rotary Club, of which he was a charter member Mr. Brockie was also an active sportsman interested in golf, curling and bowling.

As a member of the Rotary club he was well-known for his participation in the club's minstrel shows. He was also a member of the Masonic Lodge, Edmonton Club, Mayfair Golf and Country Club, Royal Curling Club, and United Commercial Travellers Association.

CHURCH WORKER

A member of the Presbyterian church, Mr. Brockie took a keen interest in all community affairs and in the general welfare of the city. He was a member of the Chamber of Commerce.

He is survived by his wife and two sons, Paul, manager of the Paint and Glass Company's Calgary branch, and John of the R.C.A.F., Winnipeg. The family residence is at 10008 Connaught Drive.

Howard and McBride funeral home is in charge of arrangements which will be announced later.

Stalin's Strategy Makes Suckers of Nazi Chiefs

By EDDIE GILMORE

MOSCOW, Jan. 22.—(AP)—Premier Stalin's grand strategy of the north began to take shape today as the German army commanders discovered they had fallen victims to that old boxing trick—the sucker punch.

Now it can be seen that Stalin's attacks at Vitebsk last month, which drew large numbers of German troops to this sector, 400 miles south of Leningrad, was the first feint. The second feint, designed to fool the Nazis into thinking that this might be the real blow, came in the direction of Novosokolniki, 90 miles northwest of Vitebsk. The Germans poured troops and tanks and mobile guns into these areas, seeking to prevent a break-through towards Riga that might cut off scores of Nazi divisions to the north. When they were properly transferred, the Red Army—which was preparing all the time for this—launched its Leningrad and Volkhov offensives.

The Germans today are in a desperate plight, trying to hold their line together from Lake Ilmen to the Gulf of Finland.

In Britain

Allies Complete Invasion Shadow Supply Service

LONDON, Jan. 22.—(CP)—Adolf Hitler has completed his anti-invasion command with the appointment of Marshal Erwin Rommel as inspector general for the defence of Europe, a London newspaper reported today as Allied transport chiefs in Britain announced completion of a "shadow" supply service for the armies that will attack western Europe.

In his new role, Rommel holds a post corresponding to that of Col. Gen. Heinz Guderian, inspector general of tank forces and Maj. Gen. Adolf Galland, inspector general of the German air force. None will be a field commander but each will be in supreme control of their respective services, it was said.

Field Marshal Karl von Rundstedt has been transferred from command of the western defences of Europe to southeastern Europe, where he will be in charge of the areas behind Field Marshal Fritz von Manstein's armies retreating from Russia, the Express said.

MARSHAL RAILWAYS

The Allies' new "shadow" service will marshal all railways in Britain under an instant timetable by which hundreds of freight trains can be set in motion from arms storage depots to jumping-off ports within a few hours, it was disclosed. Other invasion preparations include the erection of three large depots for storing supplies by U.S. army engineers. One installation covers more than 300 acres and has 13 miles of railroad tracks to connect its 290 buildings.

OTTAWA, Jan. 22.—All provincial governments were reported today to have sent the labor department their comments and suggestions on the federal government's rough draft of the proposed Dominion labor code.

As a result, labor officials expressed confidence that the provisions of the new code which will govern labor relations—at least in war industries if not in all industries in Canada—would be approved by order-in-council within the next 10 days, and that personnel of the proposed National Labor Relations Board will be nominated shortly thereafter.

Heading the new board, the duties of which will concern labor relations between employers and employees and will not include wage matters, is expected to be Deputy Labor Minister Arthur McNamara, who also holds the reins of National Selective Service. Labor, management and the public will be equitably represented on the six-man board, officials stated.

MOSCOW, Jan. 22.—Triumphant Russian columns are pouring through great gaps in the shredded German defense line below Leningrad, front dispatches reported today coincident with an official hint that the Red Army is bound for Berlin.

Speaking in the presence of Premier Josef Stalin at a Kremlin meeting, Alexander Shcherbakov, member of the Soviet politbureau, declared:

"Our army and our people are confident that the Hitlerites will shorten their lines until the shortest line on the German front will run along the River Spree, on which Berlin is situated."

Military dispatches revealed that the Russians had driven the Germans from a second railway between Moscow and Leningrad and were pressing on in pursuit of Nazi units fleeing in disorder from the fortifications comprising the vaunted "impenetrable line" below the old capital.

OPENS SUPPLY CHANNELS

The capture of Mga, five-way rail junction 29 miles southeast of Leningrad, opened new channels for supplying the Red armies of the northern front rounding out a week of victorious fighting.

Shcherbakov spoke at a Lenin memorial meeting of high Soviet government officials last night. Referring ironically to the Nazi propaganda method of backing into admissions of German reverses, he said:

"The Germans shortened their front in the winter of 1941, the winter of 1942 and the summer of 1943. They are doing the same thing now in the winter of 1944. But as the popular saying goes, what you shorten cannot be continued on Page 2, Col. 4

Invasion Stories "Out" in Future

By ROSS MUNRO

LONDON, Jan. 22.—(CP)—Until western invasion day you are not going to read much more speculation from London in your newspapers about the Allied attack being prepared here.

British authorities have asked all newspapermen here to "shush" on invasion stories—and the war reporters are not kicking for they know it would help to puzzle the Germans and aid the Allied troops if they lean over backwards to maintain all security. A similar request has been made by American authorities to the American press.

The British authorities have asked that stories by war correspondents with the forces be confined to the most general terms and no attempt be made to forecast dates even by the month or the season.

Discussion of possible landing points could be damaging, it was stated.

LONDON, Jan. 22.—Marshal Josip (Tito) Brozovich's partisan forces have started a counter-offensive across western Bosnia designed to roll back German occupation troops from all recently-seized territory, a Yugoslav communiqué announced today.

Partisan units which battered the defenses of German-held Tulza yesterday were reported engaged in bitter street fighting with the garrison of that Bosnian rail city.

LONDON, Jan. 22.—(CP)—Fewer deaths from influenza were recorded in the registrar-general's return for the week ended Jan. 15. For the first week of 1944 there were 452 deaths compared with 154 in the corresponding week of 1943.

British, Americans, French Establish Strong Beachhead

LONDON, Jan. 22.—(BUP)—The Rome radio went off the air soon after six o'clock tonight (11 a.m., M.D.T.).

ALGIERS, Jan. 22.—(AP)—A spokesman for the Allied Mediterranean Air Force announced this afternoon that an Allied air campaign had knocked out all "airfields in the Rome area except one." The bombings also blocked all railroads in the Leghorn area except one, while "rail blocks in the Rome area are for the most part effective," the spokesman added.

ALGIERS, Jan. 22.—British, American and French amphibious forces landed below Rome at dawn today and established far behind the German lines a deep beachhead several miles long.

"Initial landing successful—situation progressing satisfactorily," Gen. Sir Harold R. L. G. Alexander, Allied commander in Italy, announced three hours later.

(German broadcast said the Allies had occupied the port of Nettuno, 32 miles south of Rome, and had won footholds "between Nettuno and the Tiber estuary"—the latter 16 miles southwest of Rome.)

(The German Transocean News Agency said "violent fighting" had been going on since early morning about 31 miles south of Rome in the new battle zone just north of the Pontine marshes.)

First Big Blow in Battle For Rome

Led by British Commandos and American Rangers, the Allied invasion force of the Fifth Army swarmed ashore in an unidentified sector of Italy's west coast and fanned out inland. The first major blow in the battle for Rome was struck after other British and Franco-American forces of the Fifth Army to the southeast had ripped into the German defence line, breaking through at three key points.

The concerted assaults threatened to cut off and chip up the formidable German forces manning the crumbling fortifications in the Liri valley 65 miles below Rome.

A special communiqué announced the new invasion, the greatest since the Fifth Army landing on the Salerno beaches last Sept. 9, which was carried out under a shattering bombardment by Allied planes and warships.

LITTLE AIR OPPOSITION

A steady stream of Allied troops and trucks were pouring ashore with virtually no opposition from the German air force, the first pilots to return from flights over the new beachhead reported. The assault forces closed in against the beaches through fairly calm seas and landed on the shore white with a heavy frost, the airman said.

One pilot who was over the beachhead 30 minutes spotting hits for British destroyers shelling German gun positions, said the German guns never replied. The destroyers' targets, he added, were four miles inland.

Few details of the landing were released immediately. In lieu of the

Says Abundance Aim of Liberals

WINNIPEG, Jan. 22.—(CP)—Liberalism aims at abundance and distributing abundance fairly, not only between all classes but between all geographical sections in Canada, Senator Wishart M. Robertson of Halifax, said here last night at a meeting of the Manitoba Liberal Association.

Senator Robertson, president of the National Liberal Federation, said the situation in Canada today presents the Liberal party with the greatest challenge of its history.

Canada's future depends on the return to sanity in international relations in the post-war period, he said.

"We believe that Liberalism alone can do it. One of our opponents doesn't know and the other doesn't care."

He said that Progressive Conservatives were "only tinkering" with the problem and that C.C.F. were proposing to "ration scarcity."

Ambassador Takes Military Position

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—(BUP)—The White House announced today that President Roosevelt has accepted the resignation of Anthony J. Drexel Biddle, Jr., as U.S. ambassador-minister to the Allied exile governments in London. Biddle has accepted a military position on the staff of General Eisenhower.

Two Raids Made On Paramushiro

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—(AP)—Two bombing raids on Paramushiro, major Japanese naval base in the north Pacific, were announced by the United States navy today.

Planes flew out from the Aleutians over approximately 720 miles of the north Pacific Ocean to batter the base at the northern end of the Kurile chain.

Enemy installations on the southern coast of the island of Paramushiro were battered by the first of two groups of bombers to carry out the assaults on Friday night. In the second raid three hours later the northern part of the enemy's naval stronghold was attacked.

Anti-aircraft fire was encountered only in the first raid, made at about midnight. One enemy fighter plane, the navy reported, also endeavored ineffectively to drive off the first group of bombers but all American planes returned to their base without damage.

ALGIERS, Jan. 22.—Hundreds of Allied planes, striking in support of the Allied amphibious landing below Rome, destroyed German headquarters only five miles from the Pope's summer residence at Castel Gondolfo and wrecked Nazi airfields and communications along a 500-mile front, it was announced today.

U.S. Foundrymen Vote Three to One To Resume Jobs

SEATTLE, Jan. 22.—(AP)—Striking foundry workers of Washington and Oregon states voted three to one yesterday to return to their jobs in approximately 80 plants. Neil V. Pardo, Molders and Foundry Workers' Union (A.F.L.) secretary, announced last night.

The action will reopen the war production plants which have been closed since Tuesday morning and end the threatened shortage of castings for ship construction and repair work. The strike involved 6,000 foundry workers and an estimated 4,000 other workers remained out of affiliated shops because of picket lines in the wage dispute.

May Knock Out Nazi Air Force "This Summer"

LONDON, Jan. 22.—(CP)—The German air force likely will be knocked out "in the summer," if there is reasonably good weather, Lt.-Gen. Carl A. Spaatz, newly-named commander of United States strategic air forces for the invasion of Europe, said today.

He intimated, in his first press conference since assuming his new command, that shuttle bombing between Britain and Italy might play an important part in the destruction of Germany's air power.

"Given the same sort of weather we had in the Mediterranean, I do not think the German air force would last very long," he said.

"Do you anticipate," he was asked, "that the German air force likely will be knocked out?"

"That is what we expect to do," he replied.

COMMENTS ON SHIFT

Commenting on his shift from his former Mediterranean air post to become chief of the United States share of the air campaign against Germany, Gen. Spaatz said:

"It is essential that an interchange of experience be provided for air forces from Italy and from the United Kingdom. . . . That is particularly necessary where conditions may require units that take off from here and land in the other area."

R.A.F., Canuck Planes Batter German Centre

huge fires were left burning in Magdeburg, German aircraft and arms centre, 75 miles southwest of Berlin.

The bombardment of Magdeburg was described officially as "very heavy," a designation reserved for the supreme efforts of the R.A.F. in the knockout offensive against German war centres.

It followed by 24 hours a record assault on Berlin, in which the greatest number of British bombers ever thrown against the staggered capital left it wreathed in flames which glowed 150 miles through the clouds.

VITAL FACTORIES

Magdeburg, outposts of the Berlin industrial perimeter, comprises with its suburban factories one of the major war centres of the Reich. A railroad hub, it also is the site of Junkers engine and parts plants. The Krupp armaments works has a very large iron and steel foundry there, while more than half a dozen plants make it one of the most important arms centres in Germany.

The raid was Magdeburg's first obliteration attack, although it received a foretaste in a Mosquito bombing on Jan. 14. The capital of the Prussian province of Saxony thus felt for the first time the full weight of the Allied offensive concentrated on German aircraft production centres.

The raid rounded out 24 hours of the most intense Allied bombardment of the war. The feinting tactics, with formidable forces moving fan-wise across Western Europe, threw the German defences out of gear and enabled the R.A.F. to drive home its main blow in force.

Hog Purchases To Be Made on Carcass Values

hogs will be purchased on the basis of their carcass value in the various grades," said Mr. Gardiner.

"Government premiums, as already announced, will be paid in the case of grade A carcasses at $3 a carcass and in the case of grade B1 at $2 a carcass. The premium of $1 formerly paid by the packers on grade A carcasses will be paid on the carcass grade value for export bacon."

INDICATED BY STAMP

For the time being, the premium paid will be indicated by a stamp on the settlement forms now used. The grades now adopted are grade A and grades B1, B2 and B3, all grades to sell at the same market price. There will be one C grade and one D grade.

Grade E has been eliminated "As it represents a comparatively small number of hogs, including those condemned, stags, ridgelines and injured," said the statement.

"These will be designated accordingly. Heavy hogs will include those that dress carcasses weighing from 186 to 195 pounds, and extra heavies will be classed on the basis of carcasses weighing more than 196 pounds."

OTHER WEIGHTS, GRADES

The loss of other weights and grades follows:

Grade A. 140 to 170 pounds; B1, 135 to 175; B2, 125 to 134; B3, 176 to 185; C and D, 120 to 185; lights, 119 and under.

Mr. Gardiner said new settlement forms were being prepared for the new classification and it was intended that payment of premiums will be made by government warrant to be attached to the new form and which the producer can cash at his bank.

Nazi Captives "Peace Delegates" At Time of Conference in Cairo

ALGIERS, Jan. 22.—(AP)—One of this war's most persistent rumors—the absurd tale of a visit by a German mission headed by Foreign Minister Ribbentrop to North Africa to discuss peace terms—has been in circulation here for the past two months.

Investigation of the origin and development of this rumor disclosed the following facts:

About two months ago some captured German officers were brought to Algiers from Italy by plane and were seen at the airfield by a number of people.

Within a few hours a report that two plane loads of high German officers had arrived was going through Algiers.

At that time Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt were en route to the Cairo conference. Their trip was officially a secret but was known to practically everyone in North Africa.

It took only slight imagination to link up the two stories, and by nightfall rumor mongers were saying that a mission consisting of most of the German general staff was going to Cairo and had already been received by Mr. Roosevelt, Mr. Churchill and Gen. de Gaulle.

Ribbentrop was added to the group as the finishing touch. Gossips who claimed to have inside information said the German proposition involved deposing Hitler.

lengthened. Let the Germans shorten their lines."

Then came his reference to the river Spree and Berlin, after which Sherbakov declared:

"Hitlerite hopes of splitting the democratic countries have collapsed, unity and mutual trust among the countries of the anti-Hitlerite coalition have been strengthened. This was evidenced by the decisions of the Moscow and Teheran conferences."

ABANDON STRONGHOLDS

The Soviet high command said the remnants of German divisions which besieged Leningrad for more than two years were abandoning one stronghold after another and casting aside their arms in a panic attempt to escape a Soviet trap that threatened to annihilate 300,000 of them.

Enemy forces immediately south of Leningrad were squeezed into a 35-mile wide corridor that was disintegrating rapidly under Soviet pressure from three sides. Considerable prisoners were being rounded up, the Soviet high command said.

Says Provinces Must Cede Rights For Social Plan

WINNIPEG, Jan. 22.—(CP)—Dr. George Davidson of Ottawa, director of the Canadian Welfare Council, said here last night that transfer of a large measure of the present provincial jurisdictions over social services to the Dominion government would be necessary to clear the way for implementation of any social security plan that might be designed for post-war Canada.

In addressing the Council of Social Agencies here, Dr. Davidson urged federal, provincial and municipal governments to plan now for the post-war period. The kind of social security Canada would have after the war would depend largely on national income and employment, he said.

Weatherman Groggy "June in January" Has All Confused But Golfers

WINNIPEG, Jan. 22.—(CP)—January weather featuring the return of bewildered wild ducks, the flight of butterflies, the burgeoning of pussy willows, rising dust storms and grass fires has everybody but the golfers in Western Canada confused. The golfers have just taken up their game where they left off last fall.

Heavy rains have been reported in Manitoba and Saskatchewan and large flocks of ducks heading north have been seen in several western districts. Areas which could not boast of rain and ducks went one better and reported dust storms and grass fires on the snowless prairies.

All-time January highs in temperature have the weatherman groggy, but he says the thaw is due to continue for at least a few more days.

Canadian Ships Sink U-Boat In Convoy Fight

Illuminated a U-boat on the surface and probably destroyed it with depth charges. There were also some surface actions against U-boats in the darkness.

Meanwhile further surface escorts were ordered to join the convoy and the Calgary commanded by Lt.-Cmdr. H. K. Hill, well-known Canadian yachtsman and former stockbroker whose wife now lives at Kingston, Ont., and the Snowberry, commanded by Lieut. J. A. Dunn of Victoria, B.C., and Montreal, sped to the rendezvous.

ENROUTE SURFACED U-BOAT

En route attacks were carried out against two U-boats and then, with the Nene, the Canadian craft engaged a surfaced U-boat on the second night of the engagement, after picking it out with searchlights.

After being fired upon, the U-boat dived and the Snowberry and Nene fired a depth charge pattern which apparently damaged the submarine. A deep, underwater explosion was heard and soon afterwards a light star shell showed the U-boat breaking the surface.

In searchlight beams, the three ships opened up on the submarine with every gun and scored a number of hits. The U-boat crew jumped into the sea and it sank a few minutes later. Seventeen survivors were picked up.

There were further skirmishes with the submarines who could not penetrate the escort screen. On the fourth day German bombers put in heavy attacks with glider bombs.

The Prince Robert, commanded by Capt. A. M. Hope of Halifax, former captain of the King's Naval College, was in action with its attack guns during a 2½-hour attack. An R.C.A.F. Sunderland bomber also joined in the fight at this stage with other British-based planes.

Only two ships of the convoy were damaged in the air attack.

Noted Padre Will Be Buried Today

MONTREAL, Jan. 22.—(CP)—Montreal pays its final tribute today to Archdeacon Frederick George Scott, idol of the men of the Canadian Corps during and since the First Great War, who died in Quebec Wednesday.

It will be the second military funeral for the "grand old man" who, as senior Protestant padre of the old First Division, endeared himself to the hearts of soldiers and performed deeds of valor that brought him the Distinguished Service Order and other high decorations.

Quebec, and visitors from many parts of the Dominion, paid tribute yesterday in impressive services from St. Matthew's Anglican church, where he had served for 37 years before his retirement in 1932.

Today's service will be held in Christ church cathedral, with burial in the family plot in Mount Royal cemetery.

It will be the Church of England service, with the inclusion of the poem "Requiescat," written by Canon Scott in a field near Ypres in 1915, and at the request of many veterans—the poem "Knighthood," which he wrote in France in 1916.

Leader of Tories In Saskatchewan Resigns His Post

REGINA, Jan. 22.—(CP)—H. E. Keown of Melfort announced last night he had resigned as Progressive Conservative leader in Saskatchewan and a new leader will be named at a party convention in Saskatoon, Feb. 15 and 16.

Mr. Keown declined to state reasons for his resignation, adding that he would make an announcement at the forthcoming convention. The resignation was forwarded to C. H. J. Burrows of Regina, president of the Saskatchewan Progressive Conservative Association and "will go before the provincial convention for action," he said.

Mr. Keown was named leader of the party last June.

Mother of Slain Child Escorted to Funeral by Police

WINNIPEG, Jan. 22.—(CP)—Grief-stricken Mrs. Marguerite Abbott, 22-year-old mother of two-year-old John Wayne Abbott, killed in a downtown house, attended the funeral of the child yesterday under police escort.

She sobbed throughout the brief service, and cried: "Oh, my baby, God knows I didn't do it."

Mrs. Abbott, and another woman, Mrs. Molly McNeice, a lodger, are held for investigation on a coroner's warrant, pending the inquest set for Jan. 27.

A police matron and a detective accompanied Mrs. Abbott to the funeral service.

Mrs. Abbott found the body of her son in her second-floor suite Wednesday, his throat cut and his head battered. She had been absent a half an hour, she told police, downstairs for tea.

British, U.S., French Forces Establish Deep Beachhead Far Behind German Lines

exact location, it was permitted to say that the miles-long beachhead ran in a north-south direction.

LIKELY BEACHHEAD

(The specified direction suggested, although the Allied headquarters reports contained no direct substantiation, that the beachhead lay along the north-south stretch of the coast between Stia, port of Rome, and Nettuno, as the Nazis reported. At Nettuno the coastline swings southeastward, and does not level off to a north-south direction again.)

(If the apparent location is confirmed, the Allies will have established themselves on the immediate approaches to Rome, on the plain above the Pontine marshes which extend up to the capital itself.)

The landing troops were hand-picked for the ambitious thrust into the flank of the Rome defences, and were highly trained. They had taken part in previous landings.

HEAVY NAVAL SUPPORT

The landing in the dark of the moon was supported heavily by British naval and American units and combined British, American air forces laid down a pattern of bombs in an attack not equalled since the Salerno landing.

While the opening blows in the battle for Rome were being struck to the north, main forces of the 5th Army advanced in a general offensive all along the western half of the trans-Italy front.

British, American and French troops in the southern sector launched their attacks at least 48 hours before the first landing on the west coast to draw off attention from the amphibious operation.

British forces smashed ahead two miles along the Appian Way and seized Trionfante, two miles northwest of Minturno, captured western anchor of the old Cassino line, while American troops to the northeast forced the Rapido river under withering fire to outflank Cassino itself, strongest German bastion south of Rome.

Report British Hold Argentine Consul as Spy

By DAVID J. WILSON

Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin
Copyright, 1944, by British United Press

BUENOS AIRES, Jan. 22.—The Argentine government announced today that it was pressing a "complete investigation" of an alleged Axis spy ring in this country following the arrest of a member of the Argentine consular service by British counter-espionage officers at Trinidad.

British authorities at Trinidad disclosed late yesterday that the consular employee, Alberto Oscar Helmut, was arrested while en route to Europe and held after it was found he was "an enemy of the United Nations."

ANNOUNCE DISMISSAL

The Argentine foreign office immediately announced Helmut's dismissal from the consular service.

(The London radio, in a broadcast recorded by CBS, quoted "an official Argentine broadcast" today asserting that Helmut was not dismissed but "has been exonerated" of the charges against him.)

Argentine government spokesmen said the country's federal police, created recently along the lines of the FBI in the U.S., had been investigating Axis spy activities for some time.

"Some arrests already have been made," one spokesman said, "but, due to the bearing of the inquiry on the interests of the belligerent nations the matter has been kept secret."

"It is the firm aim of this government to carry forward the investigation until the facts are clearly established and punishment inflicted on those responsible in order to end all activity contrary to this nation's international policy."

Some War Plants In Great Britain Ease Production

LONDON, Jan. 22.—(CP)—Some British war factories have been easing off production or closing because of an over-supply of certain types of ammunition, it was reported yesterday, and some of the thousands of workers involved have been taken into the army.

The process of levelling off production to fit supplies has been going on for six months or more, it was said, but no figures are available on how many workers have been shifted to the services.

Closing of factories has resulted in pruning the ministry of supply's staff by nearly 6,000 because of the decreasing amount of work and it was inevitable that some of these office workers also have been called up for the services.

New York Chief Of Murder Inc. Is In Death Cell

OSSEING, N.Y., Jan. 22.—(AP)—The door of a death house (cell) clanged shut behind Louis (Lepke) Buchalter, chief of Murder, Inc., yesterday a few hours after the state gained his custody from the United States government.

He and two other members of the wholesale death ring that terrorized New York a few years ago are scheduled to be electrocuted Feb. 10 for a murder committed in 1936.

Lepke's release, after months of custody dispute between the United States attorney general, Francis Biddle, and Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, was granted on the condition that he be returned to federal authorities if he is not executed.

"No Action"

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Jan. 22.—(AP)—A complaint was received by police that someone was wielding an axe in an apartment. "I've been here about two weeks but just noticed that Japanese Geisha girls were smiling down at me from the wallpaper," said the elderly occupant. Police took no action.

publics, non-intervention in each other's sovereign affairs, non-discriminatory economic treatment, and agreement that any threat to the peace of any one republic is a menace to the peace of all of them and requires consultation with a view to joint action.

REPEL DANGER

The use of force to prevent aggression or to control the law-breaker is not provided for in existing inter-American agreements. It has, however, been generally recognized that in the event aggression against any part of the hemisphere was threatened from an outside source, the United States, to insure its own safety, and in accordance with its traditional policy, would utilize the full measure of its resources to repel such a danger from the American continent. In recent years it has been likewise assumed that the other major powers of the Americas would pursue an identical policy.

The use of force to prevent the outbreak of war between American states has, however, not been envisaged, either through inter-American agreements or in individual national policies.

Once a world organization is established whose primary purpose will be the maintenance of world peace, it would necessarily have to take cognizance of any threat, or outbreak, of war within the Western Hemisphere, and should it prove impossible to check the conflagration by methods of persuasion, the police power of the world organization would be required to take action.

ASKS FRANK QUESTIONS

In such event, to ask blunt question, would we, or our neighbors in any of the other American republics, desire to see British, Russian or Chinese troops, warships or airplanes sent to the New World? If force had to be employed, would we not all prefer to see a strictly inter-American continent used?

To ask a second equally frank question, if force has to be employed in the future to check a minor and local war in western or in eastern Europe, is it not probable that the European peoples would rather see the United States refrain from sending American airplanes or troops to Europe for that purpose? And would not the people of the United States themselves most decidedly wish to avoid having to contribute their men and their military resources every time hostilities threaten to break out in the Balkans or in some other far removed part of the world?

BETTER QUALIFIED

Generally speaking, the nations of each region are also far better qualified to deal with local controversies before they reach the breaking-point. They are necessarily more familiar with the origins of such disputes, and the practical ways through which they can be composed, than are nations geographically, or racially, alien to the peoples directly involved.

A practical solution of these very formidable and basic problems would seem to lie in the functioning of regional systems, through which the nations of each region would assume—always subject to the authority of the international organization's executive council—the primary responsibility for the maintenance of peace in their neighborhood. Only in the event that they prove unable to quench a local conflagration would the international executive council itself be called upon to take action.

"... I'll see if she's here."

BASES NEEDED

For these purposes air and naval bases must of course be available in each region to the regional powers which, by common agreement and in accordance with the supreme authority of the international organization, are to contribute such force as may be required to keep the peace of the region. In similar fashion there must exist certain strategic bases throughout the world available to all of those great powers which must be prepared, if a major controversy is threatened, to prevent an outbreak of world war.

Notwithstanding these evident and practical advantages to be derived from the operation of such regional systems within a world organization, unless very powerful precautions are taken, both through the provisions of the constitution of the world organization itself as well as through the development of political and economic safeguards, such regional systems might well become, in Woodrow Wilson's words, "organized rivalries" and not the foundations for "an organized common peace".

The major safeguards of all regional systems to the superior authority of an executive council, representative of the major powers as well as of all regions, and the construction of such systems upon the same general foundations as those upon which the inter-American system has been built up.

In my concluding article on this subject of regional systems I shall indicate my belief as to the manner in which an executive council of the United Nations might most desirably be composed.

Canuck Serving Yugoslavs Rose From Private

OTTAWA, Jan. 22.—(CP)—Maj. William Jones, Canadian, serving as British liaison officer with Marshal Josip Broz (Tito), leader of the Yugoslav Partisans, had a First Great War record that saw him climb the ranks from private to captain, win the Distinguished Conduct Medal and Bar and Mention in Dispatches, and return to the battlefield twice after wounds which included loss of an eye at Vimy Ridge. He is a brother of Douglas Jones, Edmonton businessman.

Defence headquarters, which yesterday released Maj. Jones' last war record, said it did not include citations for his D.C.M. and Bar. These are unavailable.

Turned down by the Canadian army at the start of the second Great War, Jones worked his passage to England on a freighter and became a member of an R.A.F. bomb disposal squad, with rank of Pilot Officer. Later he transferred to the British army.

ENLISTED AS PRIVATE

The army records show Maj. Jones enlisted as a private with the 17th Nova Scotia Battalion, Aug. 12, 1914. He was drafted to the 13th Royal Highlanders of Canada and went to France April 15, 1915.

While serving with the Highlanders, the Digby, N.S., native was promoted to sergeant and won the D.C.M. In 1916 he was wounded and mentioned in dispatches. He was then invalided to England.

The following year he returned to the old 13th battalion and was promoted to regimental sergeant major. A few months later he was again wounded, awarded the Bar to his D.C.M. and invalided to England, where he was granted a commission.

After his recovery he took an officers' course and was awarded a cup for having the highest standing of the class. In 1918 he took command of Frenchman Pond camp, an isolation point for troops from Canada destined for the 20th Reserve Battalion.

RETURNED TO FRANCE

Three months later he returned to France to take command of a prisoner of war camp at Foret Duay. Not long after this he became assistant town commandant of Denain and Mons, and was responsible for billeting 40,000 troops and the administration of refugees' affairs in that area.

Later he served in the army of occupation with his old regiment—the 13th. He had been demobilized at Halifax in 1918 and returned for the occupational duties.

His army record also notes he served at various times as a school teacher, home missionary, Canadian merchant marine quartermaster, boatswain and third mate, geodetic survey assistant, organizer of scouts, clubs, girl guides, night schools and community clubs, pulp industry adviser on community welfare, provision store promoter and real estate salesman.

U.S. Navy Admits Workers "Loafing"

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—(AP)—The United States navy frankly admits in a report to the senate naval committee that loafing, inefficiency and over-manning exist among its 700,000 civilian workers but blames the situation on the rapid wartime expansion of its payrolls. The navy said some idle time was unavoidable in the training of thousands of workers for repairing battle-damaged sea craft and doing other specialized jobs.

Seek Assurance On Permanency Of Alaska Road

CALGARY, Jan. 22.—(CP)—A federal government declaration of policy establishing the permanency of the Alaska highway will be sought by the United Farmers of Alberta, it was decided by resolution at the closing sessions of the annual convention here last night.

The resolution was recommended by the U.F.A. board and drew attention to suggestions "coming from influential quarters in eastern Canada," that maintenance of the road would be too great a financial burden after the war.

The U.F.A. took pride in the fact that it was among the first organizations in Canada to request the Dominion government to co-operate with the United States in building such a road, said J. K. Sutherland, U.F.A. vice-president.

BREACH OF FAITH

The mere suggestion of closing the road was an implication of breaking faith with the United States which had spent vast sums in its construction, he said.

Interests which profit from tourist projects now established in other parts of Canada, were among those working against post-war maintenance of the highway, said a convention delegate.

Restriction of gasoline for civilian consumption to one grade only was advocated in a resolution from the conference of U.F.A. co-operatives. Pointing out that the octane rating of two grades now sold had been sharply reduced, Mr. Sutherland suggested that a change-over could be made to one grade of an octane rating somewhere between the two present grades.

OTHER RESOLUTIONS

Other resolutions urged the lowering of tariff on importations of British goods; appointment of a provincial government committee to study taxation methods with a view to relieving land of some of the heavy taxation burden; expansion of government facilities for research work in diseases and breeding of swine and other animals.

Discontinuance of the taxes on gasoline and tractor fuels used for agricultural purposes and expansion of the facilities of the National Research Council to enable it to establish a standard of values for farm consumer goods and that the council make available the comparative values of all different brands was also asked.

HAVEN FOR REFUGEES IN DOMINION SOUGHT

CALGARY, Jan. 22.—Offer by the Dominion government of Canada as a haven for war refugees stranded in Portugal and other countries was urged in a resolution passed at the convention of the United Farmers of Alberta yesterday.

Delegates asserted that Canada, as one of the countries participating in the war which had felt the effects of war the least, had a moral responsibility to succor unfortunate people who had lost their possessions and were on the verge of starvation because of war devastation.

ASK BONUS EXTENSION

A request to the federal government "to continue the winter bonus on butter fat through the summer months and for a period of at least two years from the cessation of hostilities, was also made.

A suggestion was made to the federal government that war plants owned or, in large measure, financed by the government, be not turned over to private interests to be operated on a profit basis after the war, but be retained by the government and operated either as a public utility or on a co-operative basis.

6 Bombers Lost In Grim Attack

LONDON, Jan. 22.—(CP)—The grim determination of the men of one bomber group to smash their targets in yesterday's assault on the Pas de Calais area of France cost them six aircraft—the only heavy bombers lost from the United States forces.

When the group commanded by Col. F. R. Deane of Kerrville, Tex., returned to base, he described how his bombardiers at first were unable to find their target below the clouds.

Against the furious opposition from a pack of Focke-Wulf 190's the heavy bombers made five bombing runs before releasing their bombs.

"The Focke-Wulf 190's were doing a systematic job," Deane said. "Ten and 12 working together would concentrate on one ship. We must have done pretty well though—on the last attack only three were left."

The significance of his story was not apparent until the issuance of the joint British-American communiqué which concluded, "from these operations six heavy bombers... are missing."

One Man Killed In Gas Purifier

Cause of the accident was not determined. A man tentatively identified as Robert Payne was rescued from the purifier too late to be revived. He was a casual employee. Recovering in hospital are John Walsh, 42; Benny Billy, 33; and Nick Worobec, 58.

Dear

While fog, snow, ice, rain, blizzards and other wintry perversions of Old Man Weather kept parts of the continent busy shovelling coal into yearning furnaces, Edmonton workers went about their tasks on Thursday of this week coalless, hatless, sans rubbers or galoshes. We're not quite ready to believe that spring has arrived, although we would like to. Minimum temperatures in Edmonton and vicinity in the past few days have risen steadily: Tuesday, 20 above; Wednesday, 27 above, and Thursday, 34 above. With Wednesday's highest reading at 50 degrees above zero, a record-breaker for 1944, we hark back a year ago the same day. There was a difference of 88 degrees between the minimum of Jan. 20, 1944, and Jan. 20, 1943. Last January 20 the thermometer cracked down to a level lower than any since the winter of 1911, to 52 below zero.

THE IMPERIAL LIFE Record of Service in 1943

ANOTHER year of war has emphasized again the value and importance of life insurance to the individual and the nation alike. In providing the cover of protection for family and person, life insurance helps to stabilize our national economy under war-time conditions, and aids substantially in financing the national war effort.

● The Imperial Life shares, with other life insurance companies, the responsibility of furthering these essential objectives in the Dominion. Therefore the Company is happy to report, for the year 1943, a record of successful service in the encouragement of thrift, through an increased sale of life insurance, and by the willing co-operation of its officers and representatives in promoting the sale of Victory Bonds to the extent of many millions of dollars.

● This record of service is one of which our policyholders may well be proud. It is a striking example of achievement under a system of free enterprise, wherein individual forethought and thrift, wisely directed and co-ordinated, can provide a maximum financial return in the hour of need, and also help to furnish the sinews of war to our fighting forces.

● The sound financial position of The Imperial Life as shown by the facts summarized below, is due, not alone to long experience and careful administration on the part of its management, but to the increasing number of men and women who are safeguarding their future, and the future welfare of their families, through life insurance policies with The Imperial Life.

Equalization Pay

The Congress at Washington is considering legislation to provide mustering-out pay for men and women when they are discharged from the armed forces. The outcome will be noted with interest in Canada, as somewhat parallel treatment should be accorded to service men and women of the Dominion as they retire. How much each should get is a matter of detail, on which there may be a wide difference of opinion. The principle, however, is clear.

Those who have joined our forces have undertaken to serve at a fixed rate of pay and allowances. These amounts to less than the enlisted men and women might reasonably expect to earn in civilian employment, if they were free to engage in this at wartime rates of wages and salaries. The difference should be made up to them when their term of service expires. It may not be possible to do this with any degree of exactness, but a scale can be worked out which will on the average fairly represent the financial sacrifice now being made by the men and women in uniform.

Edmonton's Public Library

It has been shown that some 11,000 people have attended the recorded music concerts given at the Edmonton Public Library during the past five months. These concerts, at present, are given four times a week, operatic music Tuesday nights, symphonic music Thursday nights, popular music Saturday nights and appropriate concerts Sunday afternoons.

This is an excellent community service and adds one more item to the splendid record of the Public Library. Like the institution of a "library street car", it is a further instance of library pioneering.

Edmonton people have been too close to their Public Library, perhaps, to appreciate its unique value. And that, of course, is the highest compliment that can be paid to it. For not only is it intelligently operated, courteously and efficiently staffed and admirably equipped, but has become an intimate part of community life, unlike so many other free libraries that stand in stagnant isolation cultivating only the attention of alleged sophisticates and blue-stockings.

The library is definitely one of Edmonton's most useful institutions.

Cadaver Cocktails

The story from Winnipeg to the effect that the police estimate that 95 per cent of the flavoring extracts, rubbing alcohol and shaving lotions sold in that city are bought for beverage purposes does not afford any merriment for those who had fondly hoped that the human intellect was improving.

For surely it is something more sinister than a thirst for intoxicants that would lead people to guzzle concoctions that wreak such havoc on the human internal mechanism. Flavoring extracts usually contain oils which in potable quantities speedily ruin the liver. Rubbing alcohol, or a great deal of it, contains a substance that eats away the lining of the digestive tract.

Only complete ignorance or a perverse passion for mass suicide can explain this revolting vagary.

If it is ignorance that permits people to swallow down these things, somebody should inaugurate a campaign to enlighten them.

If it is a bias towards mass suicide, they should be informed that arsenic, potassium cyanide, aconite, strychnine or a dozen other drugs will do the trick much more cheaply and with considerably less pain.

Tax-Dodging

Premier Godbout is asking the Quebec legislature for authority to buy privately-owned power plants in that province and link these together in a publicly-owned enterprise similar to the Hydro-Electric system in Ontario. He explains that he is doing this in order to cheapen power to Quebec users by evading federal taxation imposed upon the companies. The privately-owned concerns have to collect $15,000,000 per year from their customers to pay Dominion income taxes. Publicly-owned enterprises pay no income taxes. Hence by the conversion it is expected to cut power bills to industrial and other users by the amount of $15,000,000 per year—assuming that the plants can be operated as economically as they now are.

What the Quebec power-users thus save the taxpayers in the rest of Canada will of course have to pay. Their gain will be at the expense of people all over the Dominion, including power-users in other provinces who have to compete with Quebec industries. Since Quebec is at a disadvantage in having to compete with Ontario industries using tax-free power, the move to provincialize the power plants there is in the nature of a self-defence expedient.

This situation would not have arisen had Ontario's Hydro-Electric system been required to pay its share of income-taxation, as privately-owned plants elsewhere have to do. Quebec is hardly to be blamed in the circumstances for wanting to also dodge the taxes. But what it all amounts to is that the two heavily industrialized provinces are shifting millions of dollars of Dominion taxation onto the taxpayers of the less industrialized provinces. The principle of the thing is neither fair nor honest.

Canadians Under Arms

Slightly more than 35 per cent of the male residents of Canada between the ages of 18 and 45 had enlisted in fighting forces up to the end of last September. Taking into account those who were rejected on medical grounds, and those on farms and elsewhere who were excluded because necessary to the carrying on of vital industries, the percentage is high. It could only have been substantially increased at the expense of further lessening the insufficient manpower available for war and other essential production.

Total enlistments in all three branches of the services numbered 889,321 at the date indicated. Of these 75,757 had joined the navy, 204,458 the air force, and 589,108 the army. Voluntary enlistments and appointments totalled 500,605; enrollments under the compulsory service law 125,640. The relatively small number of draftees is evidence that the great majority of medically fit men who could be spared from essential industry have enlisted voluntarily.

Enlistment ratios vary widely as between one district and another. Quebec district is low with 17.7 per cent of the men in the 18-45 age brackets, Victoria high with 42.4 per cent. The Calgary district, which includes all of Alberta, is well up with 38.1 per cent. In making comparisons it has to be remembered that average physical fitness and industrial manpower requirements also vary as between one area and another.

Population considered, the showing is that Canada is doing its part in providing fighting men, as in other respects, toward the winning of the war. The Russian army is supposed to number around 12 millions, out of a population of 180 millions. Canadians have enlisted in the three fighting forces in a considerably higher ratio.

The Nazi siege ring about Leningrad, which the Russians are now breaking in pieces, was established nearly two and a half years ago, in the summer of 1941. It is not complete, for the garrison succeeded in driving a corridor through the investing lines along which supplies and reinforcements have been entering the city. But elsewhere the enemy positions have held and the city has been under almost continuous bombardment. The long defence, like that at Stalingrad, is in sharp contrast with the quick reduction of strongholds, in Europe and in the Orient, in the early stages of the war.

The great question to be considered during the coming year is that of railway connection. The advent of the railway, even at its present terminus has benefited Edmonton greatly. But with every year we see more clearly how much greater the advantage would be to be right on the line. The railway, or direct connection without transshipment by means of an electric railway, is what this town needs and is all that it needs and to secure that the remaining credit of the town should be carefully reserved and every energy of the new council be exerted. Interlocked with the railway question is the bridge question. The one involves the other to a certain extent, but if we build the railway the government cannot longer refuse to carry out its oft repeated promises regarding a bridge.

Germans Devise New Strategy for Evading Defeat

Goebbels Admits Victory No Longer Possible for Huns

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

In "Das Reich," Dr. Goebbels' weekly newspaper, issue of Dec. 25th, an entire page is given to an article describing the present situation of Germany and the strategy she must follow to avoid defeat. There is no mention of victory. The writer takes it for granted, and seems to educate the German people to acceptance of the fact that the German war of aggression is already lost.

The war now being fought is purely defensive, and its object is only to win a tolerable peace for the victors. For the first time, as far as I know, it is openly acknowledged in this article that the war turned against the Germans, exactly when opinion in the Allied countries thought it had, namely, in the fall of 1942, a period which encompasses the successful defence of Stalingrad, the German retreat in Egypt, and the landing of the Americans in North Africa.

In domestic propaganda it is obvious that the best strategy today is the truth. Thus the author of the article says, "The contemporary picture is that we are everywhere on the defensive, and the enemy everywhere is attacking; not only on the continental theatre of war, in Russia and in the south, but also in the air, while the U-boat weapon has lost its offensive power. At the approach of the fifth year, the war is going over into the two-front period."

In such a situation, the tasks facing Germany, are, he holds, these: Concentrate all strategy on defence. With this in mind, turn the path of the enemy, who must attack, into a road of blood. Convince him that it is either, first, impossible to capture the main central position, or, second, that the price will be too high for his gains.

The writer says that except for the United States, all of Germany's enemies are also tired, as Germany is. Britain, he says, has been strained to the breaking point since 1942; the Soviet Union is suffering from superhuman efforts; and only the Americans will appear in the European theatre completely fresh.

But the Americans, he says, are torn between Europe and eastern Asia, and their divisions, he asserts, are fighting too far from home to understand the meaning of the war.

On this basis, the writer speculates that the Russians will not definitely continue their offensives; that the real test will come when Russian soil is freed of German troops. At this point, he hopes, and believes Allied coalition will split. He has similar hopes in the Mediterranean campaign, that when Anglo-American troops reach the Balkans, the inner solidity of the coalition with Russia will not withstand the political test. He speculates that America will revolt at heavy casualties, and that in this combination of circumstances, there will be a chance for Germany to make a deal.

He quotes two first-class German authors, Professor Delbrueck, the historian, and Field Marshal Ritter von Leeb, on the strategy of defence. It has two possible purposes; the one, so to weaken the enemy that you can take the offensive yourself; the other, to break down the enemy to the point where he is willing to negotiate peace, even though still in the superior position. The author admits that the first of these is impossible. Germany will never recapture the offensive and never be victorious.

But the second is possible, and must be the political and military aim.

I find this article significant for its complete candor. It is obvious that the German people know the situation and that further false optimism is useless.

But it is also important that this article was written before the Teheran statement was published. Actually, it appeared on the same day, but must have been written before. The Teheran statement deals a heavy blow to the speculation that Russia may give out once she has driven out the Germans. It does prove, however, that the Germans intend to withdraw entirely from Russia. Teheran also dealt a blow to the speculation that differences might arise between Russia and the western allies over the Balkan campaign. The military strategy is mutually planned, and a few days after Teheran Tito's Army of Liberation was recognized in London.

There is therefore little left of this whole strategy except the hope of breaking down the American will. So we may expect that the mouthpieces of Germany in this country will do everything to build up American losses in lives and material in the next months. In the light of this I think it unwise of our government to make such pessimistic forecasts.

Symptoms that the German propaganda is already under way showed themselves when in reporting a recent raid on Germany the German report doubled our losses.

Christ was the first Socialist. That is absolutely untrue. He showed us that we must seek individual salvation. Provision would follow as God's answer to prayer. The individual, and his relation to God, always was stressed, not the state. Socialism teaches state provision and security.

The leaders of the C.C.F. are leaders of an anti-Christian movement. Some have gone so far as to deny Him on public platforms, one was called Judas in the house at Victoria, B.C. The fate of Judas is mentioned in the Bible.

Reform First

Editor, Bulletin: Herr Adolf Hitler is innocent. I belong to a particular sect of people known as the British Commonwealth of Nations, who for generations have made it a rule that a person is considered innocent until proved guilty. As we are repeatedly told that this man is guilty and death the penalty, I must conclude the object is to prejudice us against him before the trial which is contrary to British justice. The source of this propaganda is certainly neither Christian nor British.

Those in control in Russia have tried, found guilty and executed German soldiers for alleged war crimes. Do not be swayed by this act. In 1923 the Soviet government arrested the leaders of the Christian church of Russia, tried, found them guilty and sentenced them to death. Only strong protests from all civilized countries saved their lives. No one came to the rescue of these German soldiers who were but the dupes of others. In 1933, six young British engineers were arrested in Russia, tried and found guilty. These men were later released when Britain placed an 80% embargo against Russia and stuck to it. One of them, William Lionel MacDonald, accused the Soviet government of torturing him to gain a "confession."

I have definitely come to the conclusion that this is not a war between Christian peoples at all. This is a war to destroy Christianity if there ever was one. We now recognize that in association we possess unlimited power and the people can see abundance on every side. The more individual freedom we wrest from this hidden totalitarian power, the greater progress is made. People now want the freedom to consume all they want from this great storehouse. Here is the "bottle neck" that must be open wide.

If the people gain this freedom to consume, the totalitarian powers have lost the war. This war is being used to confuse and disrupt the rising tide of the common people for the necessary reforms.

Cough Remedy

Editor, Bulletin: With so much influenza about many people are suffering from coughs as an after-effect. I should like to offer a simple remedy which I have used successfully for years. A neighbor who was in bed for a month with a stubborn cough was cleared up in a day after taking it, and my little boy, who is subject to bronchial trouble, has also had great relief from coughs through this remedy. Here it is. Take a yellow turnip. Peel and cut into thin slices and place in a dish. Cover with brown sugar and let stand for three or four hours. Then take a spoonful of the syrup, just like cough medicine, as often as needed. One day should see the cough gone.

Whose Shame?

Editor Bulletin: Re the photo displayed in a recent edition of The Bulletin, showing sacred cows of India and fabled human beings rummaging in the same Calcutta garbage pile for scraps of food: The reflection that should make us pause and consider is not the fact that the native people would sooner starve than eat the animals they consider sacred, but that such awful conditions should ever have been allowed to exist in this civilized world of 1943-44. These people at least have the untold courage and fortitude to maintain to the last their religious convictions. The shame is not theirs!

Editorial

Editor, Bulletin: Re letter from "Fair Minded" in The Bulletin. War is Hell (Sherman) and will always be under any possible circumstances and can only be justified when alternative must be very much worse. The only alternative to the bombing of Germany is to give in to them and assist them as various European countries had to do. If that were our choice, far better to have done it in the beginning. To start resistance only to give in later means that the lives expended have been uselessly wasted. Fair Minded can rest assured that our airmen regret the necessity of bombing more than anyone else can do.

Australia's Industrial Change

Creative Ability Shown In Production Problems There

By B. T. RICHARDSON

MELBOURNE, Aus.—Industrial changes that will force revision of the world's ideas of Australia have been an entry on the credit side of the ledger for the Commonwealth. Australia has discovered that it has more managerial and industrial talent than it or anyone else suspected. It has produced a great variety of war supplies and will probably produce a great variety of peacetime supplies in future. The change that has come in Australia is the kind of change that alters economic balance in the world, for Australia is a new industrial nation as a result of this war.

Australia has growing pains in its industrial muscles, like a young man after a tough day of unaccustomed toil. Industrially, the wartime expansion has exceeded limits that would have frightened the most reckless old-time promoter. Every time the Allied shipping situation improves to permit more U.S. lend-lease or Canadian mutual aid to arrive, it takes some of the load off Australia's industries. Officially, the peak of munitions production is passed. It was probably spread too thinly in spots; for the inevitable discovery in Australian factories was an acute labor shortage. "Reorganization of the munitions programme," says the official facts digest, "is now in continuous progress." Volume of output has not compared with Canada's. This is due in part to the variety of production undertaken.

Australia has been making 826 major items of war supplies, 700,000 minor items. During 1942, the army's forecast of requirements mounted at the rate of 200 new items at a time. Under similar circumstances, Canadian munitions men did considerable shopping in the United States, even arranging to obtain deliveries more quickly, more economically. But men like N. J. O. Makin, Australian minister of munitions; Essington Lewis, director-general of munitions and aircraft production; Sir Colin Fraser, director of materials supply; L. J. Hartnett, director of ordnance production, and other chief war production executives, could only organize a more efficient use of the limited native production. A flow of lend-lease aid had been opened, but it was 7,000 miles to the arsenal of democracy and the sea route was threatened directly.

A common denominator was found in many requests from different services. For instance, the army, navy and air force were asked to get along with the same rather than different types of anti-aircraft guns, battery-charging plants, field telephone wires, etc. As the armed services put up their forecasts of requirements, the materials supply directorate determined whether materials were available. It sometimes recommended substitutes. Then a firm order — "a pinkie" — was issued, charging the item to war appropriation. The munitions department issued a book to contractors, crammed with ideas for improving and speeding production. An army helicopter, vital in jungle even more than elsewhere, was produced by an Australian firm for £3,600. The British drawings allowed for a cost of £62.

The ordnance directorate, one executive explained, mobilized the brains of Australia's young technical brains. Manpower and factory facilities were under control of state boards of area management. Each board had labor repremen who have slaved all their lives and whose labor has produced the wealth to enable the government to increase the living bonus, and to pay the civil servants a handsome pension when they arrive at a certain age.

I refer to the Old Age pensioners who are living on the verge of starvation, and if it were not for a lot of kind hearted people who give them old clothes, they would be cold as well as hungry.

JAMES E. ANDREWS,
Clover Bar, Alta.

Socialism

Editor, Bulletin: Certain letters have appeared in your valuable columns from time to time, written by those who attempt to cover socialism with a veneer of Christianity.

The statement was made that sentation. So war contracts were "directed" in accordance with available manpower, factory capacity and production brains. Terms of Australian war contracts have been mostly cash payment. The department's yellow pamphlet, "The yellow peril" as business men call it, listed what could or could not be charged to war production. On the average, contracts have worked out to cost plus 6 1/2 per cent, most of them in the range of cost plus 4 1/2 to 7 1/2 per cent, but some have allowed 10 per cent. L. J. Hartnett, ordnance director (on loan from General Motors-Holden) said: "I can truthfully say I know of no organization that has made the same proportionate profit on its contracts as the equivalent it had in peacetime."

In relatively few cases has the Australian government advanced capital to war contractors. Costs of jigs, tools and dies are charged to the armed services, that is, the customers. Several high officials thought the split between government and private industry was about 60 per cent for private industry. But official employment figures showed 90,000 men and women working in government-owned plants and 425,000 in private war industry, better than four to one in favor of private industry. The government had four operating munitions factories in 1939 and now has 48, with 213 annexes to private industry. The munitions department has expended £141,600,000 as capital investment.

Australia has shown creative ability in applying engineering progressively to weapons and supplies. An inventions directorate handles suggestions from inventors, invites the public to submit ideas, helps blueprint them, protects the inventor and takes a load off army ordnance officers. Whether new secret weapons have been developed is a secret; but more than 150 ideas have been acted on.

Australian shipbuilding has advanced 20 per cent in this war. The programme includes Tribal destroyers, cargo ships, frigates and countless small craft much in demand for island warfare. Ship repair work ties up shipyards and manpower on a scale that increases steadily as the Pacific war intensifies. This phase of Australia's effort was revealed dramatically in a cruiser with its stern replaced after it was blown off by a Japanese torpedo. Ship repairs run to 1,000,000 tons a month at present.

In a bustling new shipyard in South Australia, the "safe" area, the superintendent, bluff Allan Dalziel, Australian-Scott from the Clyde-side, said: "Australian labor is the best labor in the world. They have the mechanical touch, quick to learn, very adaptable. They can turn a hand to almost anything. This is due to the kind of country here and the kind of life people lead. Ninety per cent of labor in this shipyard came from the 'bush'. About 20 per cent were women. Of women workers, R. T. Kleeman, superintendent of blast furnace, ore-sludging and other properties at Wyalla, S.A., said: "They've done a fine job."

War production is past the peak in 60 per cent of the items. Aircraft, shipbuilding and repairs and specialized supplies are still going strong. Equipment for agriculture, for refrigeration and automotive spare parts recently received priority again. From munitions production, 20,000 men are being withdrawn to go back farming.

American troops have been in Australia since March, 1942, and a number of factories are devoted purely to U.S. production. One factory seen by this writer was repairing Allison aircraft engines, strictly a United States item. A new optical glass industry is making prisms and lenses for the U.S. army.

After the war? "We will compete with the world," one industrialist said. The new industrial capacity will probably receive ample protection, for the prevailing sentiment in Australia foresees industrial and military preparedness as a national policy in the future. The tariff board has been assigned the task of reporting on prospects of converting war industries to effective peacetime uses. The war has speeded the industrialization of Australia and many people are beginning to think of this country as the industrial centre of the South Pacific. In the last war, the mass production of horseshoes was one of Australia's greatest industrial feats.

London Given Heaviest Raid Since October

LONDON, Jan. 22.—(CP)—A second air raid warning sounded in London early today after the German air force raided the capital and the southeast coast last night and lost eight planes.

The number of planes shot down during the first alert was the most in an enemy night raid in 10 months.

SOME CASUALTIES

A number of casualties were reported in the London area, including a mother and two babies who were injured when a bomb wrecked the rear of a house directly opposite a well-filled surface shelter. Persons trapped in the shelter were quickly extricated by rescue workers. The mother and her babies also were dragged from beneath the debris of their home.

The raid was the longest in weeks and shells bursting over London could be seen from 20 miles away.

Only a few of the planes, which came across the coast in waves, were believed to have penetrated London's anti-aircraft barrage which was the loudest and most spectacular heard in weeks.

One of the Nazi planes destroyed was hit as it flew over London and it plummeted to the earth spouting sparks and flames. Another was believed to have been shot down over the city.

SHOT INTO SEA

Another enemy plane was shot into the sea off the southeast coast while another was destroyed shortly after it crossed the channel.

It was the biggest raid on the London area since Oct. 7, 1943 when it was announced that 80 German planes crossed the channel and dropped 30 tons of bombs.

Last night's raiders dropped a great number of flares, more than at any time in many months. A great cluster of flares came down together in one spot, silhouetting the dome of St. Paul's Cathedral.

Bombs were reported to have been dropped in widely scattered places and falling shrapnel from the barrage guns beat the earth like a drum.

The raiders twisted, dived and circled in an attempt to get out of the searchlight beams criss-crossing the sky.

SPECTACULAR BUT PUNY

While spectacular, the raid was puny according to present-day standards and to Londoners the fierceness of the barrage was the highlight of the night.

A crowded pub in a Thames Estuary town was damaged and several people hurt. The fire station was hit and rescuers dug in the debris for survivors. It was one of the biggest attacks on that district since "blitz" days. Some houses and stores also were damaged.

Wins Medal

LONDON, Jan. 22.—(CP)—PO. John H. P. Higgins of Verdun, Que., has been awarded the Croix de Guerre by the Belgian government "in recognition of valuable services rendered in connection with the war," the London Gazette announced last night. No details of those "services" were available here last night.

Finds Western Farming Beneficial

Prices Unchanged On Cattle Markets

OTTAWA, Jan. 22.—(CP)—Prices generally were unchanged in Canadian livestock markets this week, the agriculture department reported yesterday, although western markets had a brief, short-lived flurry at the opening on good demand.

Calves were good sellers on a firm market. Hogs, lambs and sheep continued unchanged.

Cattle prices remained unchanged at Toronto. One load of heavy steers sold at $13.15 and others down to $12, and butcher steers and heifers at $10.25-$11.85.

A reduced cattle run at Winnipeg moved prices into higher ground, with all killing classes 50 cents stronger, but late bids were down 25 cents or more from the high point. Best slaughter steers realized $12-$12.25 and a few at $12.50.

Calgary had an active market, with choice steers up to $12, and several loads at $11.75, while Edmonton closed around $12 on choice. Good steers at Prince Albert moved up to $10.75, Moose Jaw mostly $11-$11.25, Regina $11.75, Saskatoon $11-$11.25 and Vancouver up to $12.

American Buying In Winnipeg Pits

WINNIPEG, Jan. 22.—(CP)—Buyers representing the United States Commodity Credit Corporation were back in the Winnipeg export market today on the wheat export market, and estimates of business transacted were placed at 600,000 bushels of No. 2 and 3 Northern.

In the pit prices moved irregularly in sympathy with Chicago. Futures closed 1/2 cent lower to unchanged with May at $1.27 1/2, July $1.25 1/4.

Imperial Life Shows Growth

J. F. WESTON President

The directors' report for 1943 at the annual meeting of The Imperial Life Assurance Company shows a considerable growth in new assurances issued and old assurances re-instated. Premium income is also growing, and it will be gratifying to policyholders to learn that practically all the company's available funds for investment purposes are used to buy Victory Bonds of which $12,000,000 worth was bought in 1943.

Payments to living policyholders compared with death claims were in the ratio of two to one, showing that thrifty Canadians are turning to insurance to make provision for their old age. That the company's assets are invested primarily in the interests of the policyholders is shown by a total of 75% invested in bonds and debentures, mostly governmental, and 4% in bank stocks and other very carefully selected securities. The balance is largely in first mortgages and policy loans.

The Bulletin's SPORT SHOW by Hal Dean

LAST night's basketball exhibition at Westglen between Currie Barracks and U.S. Army Engineers proved little more than a warm-up for the pace setters of the Edmonton cage league. Sgt. Tom Link's squad built up a 15-2 first quarter safety margin and didn't do very much worrying thereafter.

All of the Curries are from British Columbia, with four from both Victoria and Vancouver—famous as cradles for basketball. Ralph Baxter, one of Victoria's contributions has upright dimensions of 6 feet, 7 inches, a record for Edmonton courts.

But from the time Harley Miller dropped in the first field goal, the affair was an all-Engineer proposition. It being just a case of how many John Gullekson even had a little assistance from Currie's Joe Kelly in scoring his extra basket in one of the cross-court hoops, but Referee Tommy McClocklin promptly washed it out and so the two points were a total loss to John.

The highlight of the evening though was the basket resulting from the breakaway by Bob Channess and Harley Miller in the first quarter. While the Barracks men viewed proceedings from the opposite end of the court, Channess missed a set-up shot, but Miller with no opponent still within yodelling distance took plenty of time in completing the operation.

The City League-Service League test showed the Quartermasters test too strong in the stretch for the Army Air Corps boys and had things pretty much their own way in the final minutes, with Artie Albert, Bill Flint and Ollie Ferrari doing particularly effective shooting.

SAW GRADS WIN IN 1922

IN THE city while on a business trip through the west, R. H. Geary, Montreal, of the public relations department of Macdonald Tobacco Co., reports curling enjoying a boom, particularly in Manitoba, with the Winnipeg bonspiel authorities expecting a record entry.

While mulling over last night's U.S. Engineer-Currie Barracks basketball tussle, Mr. Geary, a former Canadian, recalled being one of a handful of westerners at the game holding for the Edmonton Grads—and forced to sit on the floor at that, due to an overflow house—when one of Percy Page's great teams defeated the Shamrocks in London, Ont., for the dominion title back in 1922.

The Macdonald Brier, Canada's premier curling event suspended for the duration, will be resumed immediately following the war with the first of the annual competitions in Saskatoon. Incidentally the Consols playdowns at the Royal Curling Club here are scheduled for this week-end.

"THE NEW YORKER" ON KEN

THE net-minding displays of Ken McAuley, local Maple Leaf Athletic Club product now with New York Rangers, has been the one bright feature in the work of Lester Patrick's team to date. This corner is therefore especially indebted to W. R. Pleron for calling attention to comment which was included in "Notes On Sports" column in the Jan. 15 issue of the magazine "The New Yorker." Here it is:

"If hockey were an essential industry, Ken McAuley of the New York Rangers would be provided with an escort of five F.B.I. men, three Secret Service men, and two tanks. McAuley is the Rangers' goaltender, which means that he comes face to face with a hurtling puck more times than any other goalie in his or almost any other league. This is because the Rangers are the National League's weakest team and every other team gets to annoy McAuley four times as often as the Rangers are able to annoy in return. An amazing percentage of the time, McAuley manages to fight off these advances.

Last Sunday night, against the Montreal Canadiens, he made save after save when it looked as though both teams had agreed to confine their activities to within six feet of the Rangers' goal. There were a number of occasions when the puck was right in front of him and there was nobody but Canadians to give it to, so he sat on it. Through his efforts and those of Hiller, Heller, and Hextall, the Rangers' best scoring combination, the Canadiens were kept from winning by more than 6-5, in spite of having wandered all over Ranger territory as though they owned it."

Wolfe Loses Out in Final Of South 'Spiel Challenge

CALGARY, Jan. 22.—(CP)—With a record of ten wins and one loss Glen Haw, of the Calgary Glencoe Club, won the grand aggregate of the 40th annual bonspiel of the Southern Alberta branch of the Royal Caledonian Curling Club.

Championship honors depended upon the result of the Haw-Frank Wolfe, of Edmonton Royal Club, Hudson's Bay competition final, played during the 4:30 draw yesterday afternoon. Haw won 11-6. If Wolfe had triumphed the honors would have gone to him with a record of eight wins and one loss compared to nine wins and two losses for Haw.

As a result of Haw's triumph, Wolfe finishes second in the Hudson's Bay, Glen Williams of Glencoe Club was third and W. Snodgrass of Okotoks was fourth.

The Bay final saw Wolfe have an advantage of 3-1 at the end of the third and 6-3 at the end of the sixth. After that the northerners, playing their fourth straight game, cracked badly, allowing Haw to count four in the seventh, one in the eighth and three in the ninth. The tenth and final end ended when Haw, with his first rock, passed out his opponent's shot rock.

Three more finals were decided during the 7 o'clock draw last night, with Dr. Hank Wagner, of Innisfail, defeating Bert Robertson of Edmonton, 11-8, in the Alberta Pacific Grain; Howard Palmer defeating Harry Wells, also of Glencoe Club, 10-4, in the Eston, and LAC Greer, of No. 11 equipment depot, Calgary, defeating Capt. Porter of No. 2 wireless school, 11-10, in the Gas Co.

During this draw Frank Wolfe lost out in the semi-finals of the Henry Birks (visitors) competition to Hube Gooder, of Olds. Wolfe was a trifle too heavy with his final rock on the last end, when he had a chance to win the game.

Big Field Looked For

Kentucky Derby May Have International Touch in '44

NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—(AP)—Topped off by the Hawaiian out-burner, who's already at Churchill Downs, there are enough new acts in the script for this 70th edition of the Kentucky Derby so that even an old hand like Colonel Matt Winn may need a formal introduction to it.

The presence of the "Hula Hoss"—Ruth Collins' Kope Kona—plus the possibility that a Mexican delegation may also take a shot at the jackpot give the big heat its first international touch since Omar Khayyam came over from England to pick up the marbles one world war ago.

Then there's the likelihood that the starter may tip his hat to the biggest collection of fillies ever to run in the Derby. The young ladies have their best chance in years.

Colonel Winn is looking for a big field, possibly eclipsing the 22-horse rodeo in which Reigh Court "rassled" his way home in 1928.

Other foreign-owned or bred geese have been nominated for the Derby since Omar pitched his tent in the winner's circle at the Downs back in '17, but none of them got to the post. But it's a safe bet Miss Collins didn't send Kope Kona 4,863 miles from home just to give the young man a chance to see the world.

Some one recently mentioned "Kentucky Derby" in the jockey room at Hialeah Park and the jockeys all favored Platter.

Bright-garbed riders stopped pulling on boots or adjusting caps long enough to shout the name of the G. D. Widener colt. The son

Quartermasters Beat A.C. 47-32 In Opener of Basketball Header

Engineers Turn Back Currie Cagers 49-31

Local Team Too Strong For Visitors

By DON KILLIPS

U.S. Engineers had too much power for the visiting Calgary Currie Barracks basketball squad Friday night and defeated the army team from the south 49-31 in the second half of the exhibition doubleheader at Westglen. Quartermasters gained a 47-32 victory over U.S. Army Air Corp. leaders of the Inter-Service League in the opener.

John Gullekson marked up a total of 19 of the Edmonton Men's Basketball League leaders, 49 and Harley Miller 10 to pace the Engineers while Leon Hall, a soldier who hails from Victoria came through with 11 to top the Currie marksmen, a team composed of entirely B.C. players.

The game was on the rough side, a total of 25 fouls being called by referees McClocklin and Shropshire, 16 of which were marked against the Calgary aggregation.

Engineers found the going pretty easy in the first quarter and they built up a big enough lead in that canto to coast to an easy victory.

Miller opened the counting when he picked up a rebound, Earl Ayers added a point and Mike Kroma two to give the winners a margin of five before Lt. Stan Webster's club was able to break into the scoring.

Joe Kelly, dropped in a long shot for the Curriemen to cut the lead to three, but the visitors were held scoreless in the remainder of the session while the home team marked up 10 to top a 15-2 count at the end of the initial quarter.

Play was closer in the second canto and Calgary, with Hall scoring three field goals, two of them extra long shots, Stewart Rodden counting four points and Ron Kearney one, outscored the winners 11-8. But Sgt. Tom Link's squad was still out in front at the half, 23-13.

Ralph Baxter came through with a pair of baskets in the early part of the third frame to come within eight of the Engineers, the closest since the opening minutes, but the Edmonton quintet, with Gullekson firing nine, increased the margin considerably in the balance of the third quarter by chalking up 15 to Currie's eight to enjoy a 38-25 lead going into the home stretch.

Play slowed up in the fourth stanza and the Engineers, with Gullekson and Miller being replaced midway through, went on to win easily by 18 markers. Engineers tallied 11 to the visitors' six, Kroma with four, Miller with three and Gullekson and Ayers with two each scored for the victors while Hall and Bob Marsh split evenly the Calgary points in the final.

INTER-SERVICE LEAGUE LEADERS ARE DEFEATED

U.S. Army Air Corps, leaders of the Inter-Service Basketball League, displayed their talent against U.S. Quartermasters of the E.M.B.L. in the curtain raiser last night and were stopped by a score of 47-32 in a rough, hard fought contest.

Both teams put on a good exhibition of the cage game, but the Quartermasters, who established a 10-0 lead in the first few minutes, were too strong and held off the Airmen's threat.

Artie Albert and Bill Flint sparked the winners with 12 points each and were well backed up by "Ollie" Ferrari who came through with 10, counting on five of six field tries, Jack Guthrie six, Bert Culver four and Harold Glaser three.

Lowell Cornwell, Bill Loy and "Tex" Wheeler were the best men on the floor for the Air Corps, the former chalking up eight and Loy and Wheeler six each. Both teams took quite a few long shots, but the Quartermasters showed an edge in shooting accuracy by counting on 21 or 57 field tries while the losers only made nine of 55.

The first quarter was fast with the winners marking up eight field goals and one free shot for 17 counters to gain a 10-point margin at the end of the initial canto. The Inter-Service leaguers came back strong in the second session to out-score Quartermasters 14-7 and come within three markers at half time as the scoreboard read 24-21.

Loy dropped in a long shot for the Air Corps to open the third quarter and Wheeler followed with another two points to put the Airmen ahead for the first time 25-24. Culver quickly whipped out the losers' lead when he made it 26-25 and Guthrie added a field goal to make it 28-25.

The Airmen came back again with Cornwell getting two markers and Wheeler one, to deadlock the score as 28-28, but Flint and Guthrie accounted for another four points to put the winners ahead 32-28 before Ed Mayer dropped in a free shot for Air Corps to end the third frame.

The Quartermasters played for keeps in the last 10-minute session and tallied a total of 15 while they held their rivals to three to win handily.

Ryder Cup Golf In Detroit Again

DETROIT, Jan. 22.—(AP)—Detroit is planning to stage the war-orphaned Ryder cup golf matches in 1944 for the fifth successive year, it was disclosed Friday in preliminary negotiations with Ed Dudley, United States professional golf association president.

J. Russell Gnaou, Detroit business man whose promotion of the series has grossed more than $100,000 for war charities, said the dates and site would be determined later. Last summer the Ryder Cuppers took a 3-to-1 series edge over the challengers.

Bantam League Games Tuesday

Next games in the Canadian Athletic Club's bantam hockey league are on Tuesday next, South Side playing Calder on the latter's home ice from 7 to 8 p.m. and Stadium meeting West End on 119 street rink from 8 to 7.

South Side defeated West End 11-1 on Thursday. Complete schedule will be issued next week.

Goalkeeper Dispute Settled

National League Playoffs Will Open on March 21

TORONTO, Jan. 22.—(CP)—The National Hockey League's Board of Governors emerged from closed sessions Friday to announce that Stanley Cup play-off dates for 1943-44 have been decided, that a dispute between Boston Bruins and Montreal Canadiens over purchase price of goalkeeper Bert Gardiner and been solved and that the question of appointing a full-time league statistician will be discussed at the N.H.L.'s annual meeting next Monday.

If any fireworks developed at the six-hour meeting, the governors, their deputies and other officials who attended kept them a closely-guarded secret.

Mervyn (Red) Dutton, managing director of the N.H.L., told reporters there had been some discussion of a section of the constitution, now embodied in the rule book and widely publicized as the "Gag Law," which bans players from giving statements to the press reflecting on league officials, but that no action had been taken.

PLAYOFF ARRANGEMENTS

In announcing settlement of the Gardiner controversy, league spokesmen said the dispute arose over an "interpretation" of an agreement on Gardiner's sale to Boston this season for an undisclosed sum. The governors said an agreement has been reached between the clubs and hence no details will be issued.

The play-off arrangements call for best-of-seven semi-final series between the clubs finishing first and third and those finishing second and fourth. These play-offs, known as "Series A" and "Series B" open March 21 on the home ice of the team which finishes higher in the standing. Subsequent games will be every two days, with Saturdays and Sundays optional. The final series—"Series C"—will start April 6.

Referees for the play-offs will be appointed by Dutton.

The question of appointing a statistician was introduced by Dutton and "favorably discussed" by the governors, who decided to consider the matter further at the annual meeting. Earlier, Dutton told reporters in a brief recess that "You can bet all the tea in China" a statistician will be appointed shortly if Dutton remains in official command.

SHORT OF RECORDS

He said the league's decision to approve establishment of a Hockey Hall of Fame at Kingston, Ont., similar to the Baseball Shrine at Cooperstown, N.Y., had raised numerous questions which indicate that the league is "woefully short" on official records governing the early period of professional hockey in Canada.

At the morning session, the governors decided to accept concessions sought by the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association regarding payment for players graduating to the N.H.L. from amateur ranks. "The N.H.L. and the C.A.H.A. are in full agreement," Dutton said.

It was announced the N.H.L. approached the Canadian arm's services on the por-bility of playing two all-star games for war charity between a picked N.H.L. team and a service team, but that the offer was declined by the services because of "exigencies of training."

Lester Patrick, manager of New York Rangers, announced the N.H.L. has decided to recognize a Southern California League comprising teams from Pasadena, Los Angeles, Hollywood and San Diego. Patrick said the league declared "outlaw" an organization competing with the Southern California League. This rival organization was not identified.

NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—A new world opened warm and inviting arms today to old Sam Langford as Boston's legendary "Tar Baby" sat blind and penniless in his frigid, dingy room in Harlem.

A group of New York business men and women launched a nation-wide drive for contributions that might lift the once-great Negro pugilist out of his poverty and provide the 57-year-old gladiator with enough money so he can at least keep buying some "baccy" for his pipe.

Langford is broke and blind now. Gone is the roar of the crowd that accompanied his amazing performance during 642 professional fights. Gone is the golden harvest that meant so little to him when the whole world seemed his friend. The brown-skinned, pug-like man, with sawed-off, pudgy body and derrick shoulders and basket-like hands cannot understand his poverty because he can only feel it—the cold and the hunger, and the absence of tobacco—and the absence of visitors as he sits alone in his cubicle of a room—with only his memories to remind him that he is not dead.

RICH IN MEMORIES

ALTHOUGH he is blind and broke, old Sam is richer than most mortals in memories. And he should be, because his prowess from 1902 to 1923 enriched the pugilistic world with fistie feats that never have been rivaled. From the time he licked Joe Gans as a light-weight, he tangled with the greatest fighters of his day—mostly heavyweights, although his best adult weight was only 162½.

Before Jack Johnson won the heavyweight title, Langford lost a close 15-round decision to "Lil' Arthur" at Chelsea, Mass., in 1906. Slammin' Sam weighed only 145 pounds against Johnson's 194. And Langford never had taken a boxing lesson.

Langford took lessons later, and put on a few pounds, and he chased Johnson through several countries, trying to get a shot at his title after Johnson became heavyweight champion; but he couldn't make contact. Meanwhile Langford fought anyone, at any weight, who came along. He battled Joe Jeaneatte 16 times; Harry Wills 19 times—the same Harry Wills who never could entice Jack Dempsey into the ring.

"JOE GANS GREATEST"

LANGFORD, in his old blue cap and frayed overcoat, was led into yesterday's fund meeting in the New York Herald Tribune offices. Replying to questions, he said Joe Gans was the greatest all-round fighter that ever lived; and that Joe Louis was the best heavyweight. He thought current fighters had better bodies than those of the past; but, unfortunately, their modern instructors knew little of the "manly art".

Why was he living in abject poverty—existing on a few dollars given him every month by a foundation for the blind? Where were his former manager, his former friends, and his relatives? He said, "I'm just an old colored man. I'd rather not talk about that."

The idea of a fund for Langford developed with the Herald Tribune after one of its boxing writers wrote a story concerning the plight of the "Tar Baby". Contributions began coming in so an executive committee was chosen to administer the fund and arrangements made to carry on the drive on a nation-wide basis.

Maroons Better Finishers

Flyers Stop Calder 4-0 in Canadian Bantam League

THE Stadium Flyers got away to an impressive start in the Canadian Athletic Club's Bantam Hockey League as they skated to a 4-0 win over a scrappy Calder squad in a game played at the Stadium rink last night.

Both teams turned in a smart exhibition of the favorite winter sport, but it was the case of the winning maroon gang showing better finish around their opponents' net.

The Flyers racked up their first counter at the 12 minute mark in the initial frame as a result of some clever puck passing. Donald Haley carried the disc over the Calder blue line and flipped a short pass to Jack Grace who in turn relayed the rubber to Gerald Sweeney and the latter flashed the red light with a blazing ankle shot.

The Flyers added two more in the jam session. Donald Flock netted the first on a flashy solo effort which saw him skirt the opposing defence and give goalie Billy Fox no chance with a hard waist high shot. At the fifteen minute mark, George Lawrence, hardworking rearguard split the loser's defence to put his club ahead 3-0.

The kids from Calder swarmed to the attack in the final period in an effort to get back in the running. However, they were thwarted time and time again by the brilliant net-minding of Dick Behn in the Stadium Flyer's goal. The Sweeney-Haley, Grace line wound up the scoring for the night as they duplicated their first period goal.

Considering that it was the initial game for both clubs, it was well played. The Flyers presented a stout defence and had in the Stan Cudmore, Terry Melnychuk, Eddie Wiederspiel, and Haley, Grace and Sweeney lines two smooth working attacking units. Flock and Ron Ferguson were also impressive.

Coach Leo Pettit's Calder squad should prove to be very tough to beat from here in. Leo Couturier, Jeff Barnes and Charlie Duncan were towers of strength for their team while Donald Pierce who

"Rocky" Reports Lumbering Boom

ROCKY MOUNTAIN HOUSE.—The lumber business is booming all over the district, and an order for a million poles for communication lines more than doubles last year's orders.

Army specifications are very strict, so there are many culls, but the culls are not wasted. They make firewood, fence posts and props. Every day, huge trucks, often with trailer sleighs, line the roads, loaded high with these poles. The trucks run day and night, if the men in the woods are able to cut fast enough to keep them hauling.

As these poles are small, made from young trees, in cutting them, the lumbermen are thinning out standing timber, which is good for the older trees.

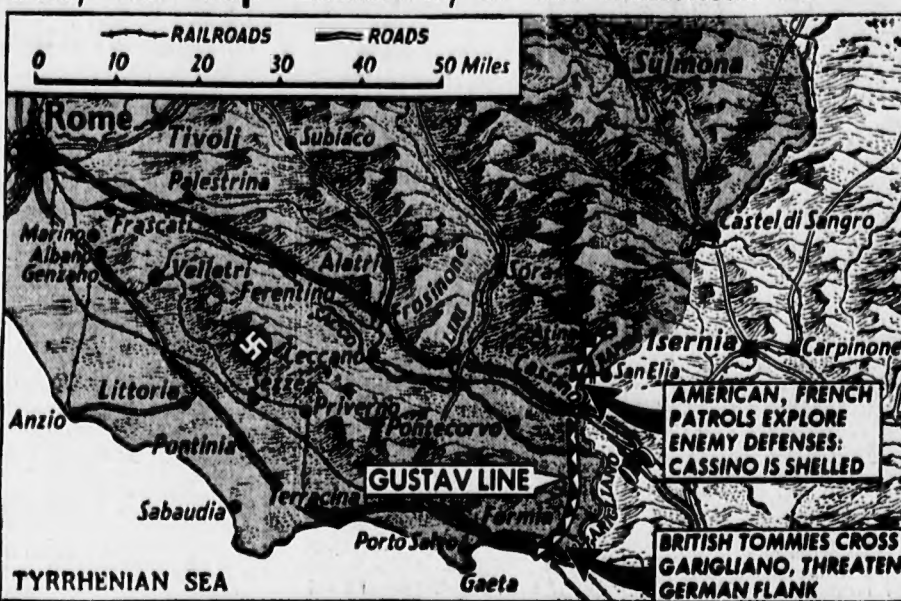

From here, the poles are shipped to Prince Albert or Fort William to a crosscutting plant, to be treated and trimmed. Sixty carloads have gone, with huge piles by the tracks, waiting to be loaded.

Urgent Need!

LONDON, Jan. 22.—(CP)—An advertisement in the Times yesterday said: "Ladies urgently requires two suspender belts (girdles)..."

Beer "Sold Out" At Calgary Stores

CALGARY, Jan. 22.—(CP)—Calgarians found they could not buy a bottle of beer from either of the two government liquor stores or the Alberta liquor control board's warehouse here yesterday.

According to a government announcement Thursday, there will be no more beer for sale at vendors until next month.

Wine was also off the shelves at both liquor stores yesterday although prospective customers were told that some wine stocks might be on hand for next week.

There was a fairly good assortment of liquors and some liqueurs and bottled cocktails.

It was pointed out by many Calgarians that while they were supposed to have a ration of one 13 ounce bottle of liquor, one case of beer and one 26-ounce bottle of wine this month, those who did not purchase their ration at the first of the month were being denied both beer and wine.

"It's a case of first come gets his ration, others go without," one would-be customer commented. "It's not a case of orderly and equitable distribution of supplies."

One Calgarian had the bright suggestion of making a proposition to liquor store officials to turn in his beer and wine ration (which he did not get) in return for an additional "mickie" of liquor.

Plans Memorial NASSAU, Bahamas, Jan. 22.—(CP)—The Duke of Windsor proposed yesterday the appointment of a committee to arrange a memorial to Sir Harry Oakes, Canadian mining millionaire who was slain last July at Westbourne, his palatial Bahamas home.

Vera Bassett, treasurer of the union, stated in her financial report that the carol service held in December had been a big success both financially and otherwise. It was one of the highlights of the year's activities of this organization.

Hi-School Hi-Lights

EASTWOOD By Susanna Alexeff

The second edition of the Gazette is expected to be out next Wednesday, with the usual school highlights and gossip. When the graduating class met last week different committee were chosen, including the rings and pins committee consisting of Gordon Weiser, Douglas Clark, Violet Mercer and Decima Stott; the dance committee of Shirley Smith, Doris Smith, Bill Wilson, Don Bittorf, Ronald Harvie and Yvonne Field, and a photo committee of Joyce Griffith, Susanna Alexeff, Jim Radford and Walter Goresky.

Room 21 is in the lead so far in the purchase of war savings stamps, and has five airplanes pasted on the "chart" in the hall. A close runner-up is Room 4. Both of these rooms are Grade 12 classes.

Mockey practices are under way and are soon expected to choose regular teams for the season, under the supervision of Mr. McCoy. Mr. Hyde has consented to coach the boys' basketball team.

WESTGLEN By Jack Gibbons

The war stamp drive at Westglen at the end of the first week has been a great success. Room 5 was the first to go over the top, with 112 per cent of its quota subscribed by Wednesday noon. The war pennant will be awarded every two weeks to the winning room.

All orders for Westglen school rings were entered Thursday. All clubs wanting crests were asked to submit their designs as soon as possible.

The students' council has discussed plans for the adoption of a school flag or pennant. Crests for members of the body are also being designed and it is hoped that school pins will be obtainable.

VARSITY HIGH By Jeanne Gould

Varsity High is buzzing with activity as preparations and rehearsals are under way for the school's operetta. Miss D. Sheppard is directing the drama and choruses, while the orchestra will be under the baton of Miss M. Bowman.

Members of the new ski club are waiting patiently for more snow. Sunday's meet was cancelled because the hills were too bare.

McDOUGALL By Reva Taradash

A drama club is a beneficial organization in any school. Since dramatics is not being taught at Commercial this year, a club has been formed to undertake the work which would usually fall to the dramatics class. It is progressing rapidly—making plans for a skit to be put on at the 11th Jan. 21, as well as choosing a play for the yearly night lit.

The election for the boys' club has taken place with John Boer as president, Frank Kirby, vice-president, and David Little, secretary-treasurer.

Arrangements for a sleigh ride have been made by the union and it is expected to take place on Feb. 25. The agenda for the inter-school council was drawn up by the union this week.

STRATHCONA By John Macdonald

On Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of this week, the students of Strathcona High school presented "Out of the Frying Pan" to capacity audiences. The success of the play can be greatly attributed to Miss Maimie Simpson who directed, production, cast, and the often forgotten and unseen workers behind the scenes. The business managers and the students as a whole should be complimented for the financial success of the play.

This month the sale of war savings stamps has greatly increased and if the present rate of sale is kept up the school as a whole should exceed last month's total sales.

On Tuesday of this week the boys' basketball teams from Seona, Vic, and Westglen held two practice games. Scores were Seona 10, Vic 11, and Seona 5, Westglen, 2.

Rotary Brochure Extends Welcome To U.S. Visitors

"Welcome American," is the name of a four-page brochure published and distributed by the Rotary Club of Edmonton.

Extending a warm welcome to Americans, "whether you have come for business, or pleasure, in uniform or in civilian," the message says "we want you to feel as much at home and as much among friends as we have been made to feel on our visits to the United States."

ANSWERS QUESTIONS

Briefly answering "some of the questions that our American friends most frequently ask," the brochure contains an eleven paragraph concise condensation of the geography, history, industries, population, government, and wartime contribution of the country.

"This, then is Canada," the message of goodwill continues, "big in area and resources, varied in terrain and products, small in population, active in trade and industry, independent in status, democratic in government, loyal to the British Commonwealth of Nations, and saturated with the same freedom that you yourselves treasure."

"To this Canada," the message concludes, "we bid you a warm welcome with every good wish for your sojourn among us and God speed on your return home."

The four-page brochure is about 3½ by 5½ inches in size, printed in blue ink on white paper, but in it is packed a world of goodwill and a better understanding of our country.

10,000 COPIES PRINTED

The ten thousand copies printed by the Rotary Club toward the end of last year have already been distributed widely to military people both in the United States and Canada, according to Rotary Club President Reg. T. Rose.

A reprint order for another ten thousand copies is in the process of being filled and will be available in the near future.

Service Men Are Welcomed Back in City

Members of the recently-organized welcoming home committee for returning servicemen turned out in full force Friday night to meet a party of 25 Edmonton and district soldiers arriving from overseas.

Nearly all are back from service in Britain, although some had served in the Mediterranean theatre.

The following six are from Edmonton:

Capt. Hugh MacCrostie, Tpr. M. H. Yanew, Spr. P. Thew, Gnr. J. H. Ronaldson, Tpr. C. L. Dupuis and J. A. Ward.

AT TRAIN

Included in those meeting the train were: Mrs. J. C. Jefferson, Lt.-Col. E. Brown, M.M., E.D., and Mrs. Brown, Robert Muir of the Canadian Red Cross and Canadian Legion officials and heads of service auxiliaries.

Edmonton district men returning were:

Gnr. J. E. Sauan, Grande Prairie; Gnr. J. Swain, Lac La Biche; Pte. S. W. Sweet, Lindsale; Gnr. E. A. Stewart, Withrow; Spr. E. M. Blake, Peace River; Pte. E. Finnebraaten, North Star; Spr. W. Waite, Thorold; Tpr. R. T. Neilson, Red Deer; Pte. T. Cirka, Peace River; Pte. N. E. Kreutz, Wetaskiwin; Pte. W. C. Netterfield, Wetaskiwin; Gnr. C. H. Boulton, Cpl. A. M. Ambler, Millet; Tpr. W. E. Bowers, Caroline; Gnr. G. F. Tremblay, Lac La Biche; Gnr. C. P. Whitford, Nollikewin; Spr. A. Laidler, Kinsella; Spr. A. C. Ray, Mirror; Pte. M. D. Simpson, Darling.

Fails to Report: Draws 3 Months

Cleo Charles Harrison of Calmar, was sentenced to three months hard labor by Police Magistrate J. M. P. Coady at Leduc when convicted of a charge of failing to report to an "alternative service camp" as directed by the alternative service officer of the district.

W. H. Odell, K.C., of Wetaskiwin who acted as crown counsel stated that the accused had been relieved of active military duty and declared as a "conscientious objector" on his own representations that he was a "Jehovah Witness," and that he had received notice to report to an alternative service camp and had absolutely ignored the notice.

Magistrate Coady told the accused, his attitude toward his social responsibilities warranted no leniency. The regulations were fair in that every citizen is expected to do his duty.

"The only reason I am not giving you a stiffer sentence is that manpower is badly needed in this country," he said.

Upon completion of his sentence Harrison is to be escorted to the alternative service camp.

Former Resident Is Dead at Coast

Walter Sporre, Sr., well known in Edmonton two decades ago as a livestock dealer, died at Vancouver Saturday morning, according to word received here.

Mr. Sporre, whose residence used to be on the St. Albert trail, came to Edmonton in 1906. Prior to that, he had lived in Winnipeg for a year.

In his earlier days, he bought horses for the American government for army use, and during the Spanish-American war, sold 23,000 animals to the United States. He was a prominent exhibitor of thoroughbred stock on prairie circuit fairs.

He is survived by Mrs. S. Sporre, his wife, and a son, Walter, Jr., both of the coast city.

The Inquiring Reporter

THE QUESTION:

What do you think of the proposal that the city subscribe for shares in the capital stock of any association incorporated under the Alberta Building Associations Act?

THE ANSWERS:

LEN LORON, salesman: I cannot see that the power of the city should be broadened to permit it to subscribe to such a proposition. If it is permitted so to do a precedent is established and it would have to loan to other companies and industries. It is opening the door to a practice that might lend itself to abuse.

HARRY PARKINSON, tailor: As Edmonton is so short of housing it would be a good thing if the city council was empowered to subscribe to companies of this character. There can be no great objection to investing money in a sound building organization, and it would have the advantage of returning a greater yield on the investment than is now earned on purchase of municipal and government bonds.

WILLIAM FRASER, bookkeeper: I do not see why the city should subscribe to the capital stock of any company engaged in home building. The city should carry out its own plan as a civic utility. It now has the power under its charter so to do. If it is safe to invest in a building organization it must also be safe for the city to undertake a similar project.

Arrives Overseas

OD. Robert Grant (Bert) Pringle, R.C.N.V.R., son of A. Pringle, 11634 80 street, has arrived safely overseas, according to word received here. Born in Edinburgh 18 years ago, OD. Pringle came to Edmonton with his parents in 1926. He enlisted in the navy in January, 1943, and has received training in Edmonton, Victoria, and Comox. He has an older brother, Alexander, who is a LAC with the R.C.A.F. at Dufur, Sask. Both were well-known hockey players before enlisting.

Second So-Ed Course Starts Here on Feb. 18

Because of the widespread interest and support of the previous series of lectures and activities given at the Y.M.C.A., a second "So-Ed" course will begin Feb. 18 and run through March 24, it was announced Saturday.

The six week program of activities is being planned specially to offer well known speakers for the lectures and discussions. Expert leaders for the leisure-time and recreational activities will speak.

Among the speakers in the last "So-Ed" were Dr. John Macdonald, professor of philosophy, University of Alberta; Hon. A. J. Hooke, provincial secretary; Grant McConachie, general manager, Western Lines, Canadian Pacific Air Lines; the Rev. Daniel Young, minister, First Baptist Church.

Activities included music sessions, dramatics, dancing, as well as discussions on philosophy, politics, psychology, and science.

Included on the sponsoring committee are Harold Sprague, Penny Pryor, Betty Sands, Rita Speers, Anna Neilson, Peggie Campbell, Harold Van Horne, Alf Flowers and Ralph Young, "Y" program secretary.

Further information may be obtained at the Y.M.C.A. and persons interested are urged to register early as the number of registrations for the "So-Ed" is limited.

Give First Consideration to Home-Town Merchants

That Is Johnstone Walker's Suggestion to Out-of-Town Readers!

Johnstone Walker's has never lost sight of the fact that the future of Edmonton is, to a very great extent, dependent on prosperous conditions in the small towns in the territory north, south, east and west of this great commercial centre.

For this reason Johnstone Walker's has always encouraged out-of-town readers to patronize their home-town merchants whenever they can supply your needs. Think of your inconvenience without your general stores or specialty shops. These businesses are the mainstay of your community. It is their taxes that help to pay for schools, sidewalks, street maintenance, etc. But when your local merchants say: "Sorry, we haven't what you want" . . . Then, and then only do Johnstone Walker's suggests that you drop a line to this Edmonton-owned store stating specifically what you want and our experienced mail order shopper will gladly shop for you.

Alberta Is Providing Up-to-Date Public Health Service

Beneficial Innovations Instituted in Province Throughout Long Period

The Alberta department of health, organized as a separate government department at the 1919 session of the Legislature, and now presided over by Hon. Dr. W. W. Cross, minister of health, has been instrumental in providing citizens of the province with the most comprehensive and up-to-date provincial health service available in Canada.

In Charge

Hon. Dr. W. W. Cross, minister of health, who has been in charge of health administration in Alberta since 1935.

Public health education, public health nursing, social hygiene, sanitary engineering and sanitation, dental hygiene, mental hygiene, travelling health clinics, and institutional attention for serious illnesses all have attained high standards of efficiency in recent years.

Infantile paralysis, tuberculosis, and cancer are three diseases to which the government health department has given unceasing attention, and services available to the public to wage war against them are second to none in North America.

Since 1935, available beds in provincial sanatoriums for tuberculosis patients have been increased in number, and now more than 400 are in use. The government has made plans for a half-million-dollar T.B. sanatorium to be built on the University of Alberta campus, and it is expected construction will begin as soon as the war is ended. In addition, provincial tuberculosis clinics have increased operations in the last few years.

SPECIAL CARE

Special care and training of infantile paralysis victims has received much government attention in the last few years, and victims of this dread disease now receive special medical treatment which reduces disability to a minimum. Patients also receive special treatment which enables them to become self-supporting.

District nursing services have been maintained at a high level, even in the face of war shortages on clinical staffs. District nurses are maintained in areas remote from hospitals or medical services. The nurses are specially trained to give inoculations and vaccinations, and in addition they perform in-

Value of medical examination and consultation is stressed by recognized authorities. Above is shown a typical scene as a doctor and a patient are conferring regarding health and welfare. Periodic examinations are advisable.

uable service in giving advice to expectant mothers.

Under the Hospitals Act of 1938, maternity cases were defined as "sudden and urgent", and were thereby assured of more adequate medical services.

In 1939, the Maternal Welfare Act made provisions for a special grant to be paid to expectant mothers. If they were in poor financial circumstances. Designed to provide additional necessities for mothers and babies, this Act brought much relief from want and worry to many homes in the province.

This year, the Hon. Dr. W. W. Cross, minister of health, has announced he will introduce special maternity legislation providing free hospitalization expenses for all cases. Details of the plan have not been announced, and are expected to be laid before the forthcoming session of the Legislature.

Health units have been set up at various rural points, to provide modern preventative health facilities to country residents. The government bears half the cost of these units.

Last year, in Lamont Health Unit, a nutrition camp was operated by the government, and attracted continent-wide attention. It demonstrated what could be accomplished in a short period by giving children well-balanced, sustaining meals, and results were described as "most heartening".

Waging a vigorous war on cancer, the Alberta government provides free clinical service for cancer sufferers. As early as 1938, legislation was passed allowing for admission to hospitals of indigent cancer patients, "as a matter of urgent necessity".

Prior to 1935, five regular mental hygiene clinics were established in the province. Since then, four more have been opened, and today nine are in operation at Edmonton, Calgary, Lethbridge, Medicine Hat, Drumheller, High River, Ponoka, Coleman, Red Deer, and one in the north.

NEW BUILDINGS

Since 1936, three new buildings for the care of mental patients have been opened in Alberta, and today, care of persons in provincial mental institutions is as modern as any in the world.

Dr. Cross, in a debate in the provincial legislature in 1939, said: "The policy of this government is to take over one specific disease after another, as fast as finances will permit, until we eventually reach the goal of complete health services, including disease preventive services."

Outline Methods Of Pasteurization

The commonest method of pasteurization in small plants is by the use of vats, in which a batch of milk is placed, raised to a temperature of 142 degrees F. and is then maintained at temperatures varying from 142 degrees F. to 145 degrees F. for 30 minutes. Heating is accomplished in some cases by passing steam or hot water through a coil, wholly or partially submerged in the milk to be pasteurized. The coil itself is made to rotate in the vat thereby agitating the milk slightly. Heating is also accomplished in other systems by applying the heat, in the form of hot water or steam, to the outside of the vat containing the milk and by agitating the latter with a moving paddle.

The chief objection from the standpoint of large dairies with respect to the above systems is the time taken to bring the milk up to 142 degrees. To obviate this difficulty all the milk to be pasteurized may be first heated in a large vat and then be fed automatically out to each of a number of pasteurizers so that unlike the vat system previously mentioned, the milk enters the pasteurizer at a temperature of from 142 degrees F. to 145 degrees

F. By so doing greater economy can be exercised in the use of the pasteurizing equipment.

Modern pasteurizing equipment is fitted out with thermometers which automatically register the temperature of the milk within the pasteurizer during the thirty-minute interval during which pasteurization is being carried on. Such recordings are made on circular paper discs fixed on time clocks provided in conjunction with the pasteurizing equipment. The discs so obtained furnish evidence to inspectors that pasteuriza-tion is being and has been satisfactorily practised. It is interesting to note that the regulations of the provincial board of health require automatic temperature recording equipment in conjunction with all pasteurizing equipment being used to produce pasteurized milk for human consumption.

Good Health

The Alberta Department of Health is directly concerned with the promotion of good health practices among the people of the Province, and through a wide variety of services reaches the great majority of Albertans.

Literature and advice on prenatal and post-natal nutrition, on child feeding and child care, is available to all who seek guidance on these important matters. All inquiries are dealt with promptly by qualified members of the Departmental staff.

Health, Education are Foundations for Future Progress

Reconstruction Social, Economic Structure Seen After Global War Ends

By DR. G. M. LITTLE
City Medical Officer of Health

What a world our younger generation will inherit! A world in which we, the younger generation after World War I, thought we had established a lasting peace, but which is again bruised and torn by an even greater struggle. Institutions must again be rebuilt. Our social structure must be overhauled and reconstructed to satisfy a new set of world conditions. A formidable task we leave to our children.

Perhaps we may derive a little consolation from the thought that this task may prove a challenge which will call forth the ability, the vision and the virility of our race which so often seems to require the stimulus of adversity. But there is, fortunately, a more concrete and more comforting inheritance than this bestowed upon our successors. One indeed, which may lead us to hope that they can build that brave new world which many of us envisioned following 1918, but which, mirage-like, seemed to disappear before us.

We have provided two solid foundations for them to build upon in the fields of health and education. By no means are these complete structures; but we have at least cleared away much of the ignorance and prejudice which cluttered up the ground in both these fields during the early part of this century, and laid the foundations for future progress.

What greater hope of solving the tremendous problems which loom before us than is offered by the universal health and intelligence of our people? When these efforts have advanced to the point where we can truly say the great majority of our citizens possess a well-trained mind in a healthy body, then our country and its institutions must rank with the greatest on earth. To those who were educated before World War I, it is unnecessary to point out the great strides which have been made in education. Facilities of all kinds, both physical and mental, offered today's student, would have appeared Utopian to his counterpart of even 30 years ago. Research has passed from the hands of the few to many. Not the least accomplishment of our educational institutions has been the cultivation of a broad and humanitarian outlook.

HEALTH FOR MANY

But it is especially of our progress toward "good health for the many" that I wish to speak. Even the casual observer has noticed that the average young adult of today is often taller and sturdier than his parents. On every hand we may observe the children of our friends, and perhaps of ourselves, towering above their father and mother. The conclusion comes to us that even the rather sketchy attention which has been paid in the past to proper nutrition, early correction of physical defects, and to

Heads Clinic

Dr. George H. Malcolmson, head of the provincial government cancer clinic, who is in charge of Alberta's unending war against cancer.

Scientific Tests Determine Quality

The usual tests made on milk in the Province of Alberta are as follows:

(1) The reductase test provides a means of comparing different samples of milk with respect to "keeping quality" or stability. In applying this test to a milk supply 1 c.c. of methylene blue solution is added to 10 c.c. of the milk to be tested and thoroughly mixed. The tube containing the mixture is stoppered and placed in a water bath capable of maintaining a constant temperature of 90 degrees F. The time required for the blue color to disappear is noted. A good fresh milk will require over 5 1/2 hours to decolorize; a very bad milk less than twenty minutes. The dirtier the milk is, the speedier is its ability to reduce the methylene blue. The test is quite delicate and accurate for the grouping of milk into classes. The test may easily be carried out in country creameries and cheese factories.

(2) The sedimentation test consists essentially of passing about a pint of milk to be tested through a small paper filter, about the size of an ordinary milk bottle cap. Small particles of manure, dirt, hair, etc., are retained on the surface of the filter paper, which is then compared with a standard graded set, and is classified according to its position in the standard scale.

(3) The "bacteria count" provides a very good means of comparing the sanitary conditions under which different milks are produced, as well as providing an idea of the conditions under which the milk is being handled and stored. This test is made in laboratories equipped for the purpose, and the procedure adopted is too involved to include in an article such as this. High bacteria counts indicate that milk is either dirty, old or warm, as any of these factors favors a rapid growth and multiplication of bacteria.

(4) The specific gravity of the

Cancer Caused By Unnatural Cell - Growing

The human body is made up of millions of minute structures called cells. The collections of similar cells form tissues, and tissues make up organs such as the heart and lungs. If one cuts his hand the wound soon heals. Cells grow and multiply, and when the healing has been completed, cell growth and multiplication cease. The cell growth which forms organs and heals wounds is a healthy desirable process which conforms to certain laws.

Cancer, on the other hand, is a more or less rapid process of cell growth and multiplication which does not conform to the laws governing cell growth elsewhere in the body. When science has determined why cells start to grow and multiply, and why growth and multiplication cease at a certain stage, then we shall be much nearer the discovery of the cause of cancer. But why cells start to grow is a problem very closely if not completely allied with the infinite, and the ultimate cause of cell growth, which is the ultimate cause of cancer growth, may be a long way from discovery.

CONTRIBUTORY FACTORS

While from the scientific point of view little is known in regard to the cause of cancer, yet a great amount of research work has been done in discovering those agencies which favor cancerous growth.

Whenever tissue, especially unhealthy tissue, is subjected to prolonged irritation, cancer is liable to result. Nature seems to resent being called upon to replace tissue that is being continually worn away by an irritant, and eventually refuses to be subservient to the laws governing cell growth and multiplication.

milk is determined by apparatus particularly adapted for the purpose.

(5) The butter fat content. The Babcock test is ordinarily used in North America while the Gerber test predominates in Europe.

(6) The phosphatase test is used to check milk that has supposedly been pasteurized, to see if such pasteurization has been effectively carried out, and also to ascertain if raw milk is coming in contact with milk which is supposed to have been properly pasteurized.

and as a result the process runs wild.

CANCER DIAGNOSIS

The early diagnosis of cancer is difficult. The diagnostician must collect all his evidence carefully. In the light of his teaching and experience he must weigh every point in the evidence just as a judge weighs evidence. A microscopic examination of a minute specimen of the suspected tissue is of great assistance. Normal tissue presents one picture. Malignancy (i.e., a tendency to a fatal issue) presents a cellular structure which has certain typical deviations from the normal. Certain inaccessible growths, especially those of the gastro-intestinal tract, are revealed by X-ray technique.

It cannot be emphasized too strongly that the diagnosis of cancer is not a subject for guess work, but a matter for the scientifically trained physician. Not all growths or tumors are malignant. Many a serious looking tumor is quite benign (i.e., not likely to become dangerous).

If the growth is malignant, early diagnosis and treatment are both imperative. On the other hand, many an individual worries for months over a benign tumor whereas an early diagnosis would have set the patient's mind at ease.

TREATMENT OF CANCER

Cancer begins as a local growth and spreads with varying degrees of rapidity. It may spread by direct extension into the surrounding tissue. Cancer of the glands, such as the breast, spreads through the lymphatic system; cancer of the bone and surrounding soft tissues spreads through the blood vessels. The reverse process never occurs. That is, cancer cells never originate in the blood stream and attack the tissues.

After the cancer cells have begun to spread from the original site of the growth to other parts of the body, the chances of a complete successful cure are very slight, but while the growth is localized it may be removed surgically or the lawless cells may be destroyed by X-ray or radium. Caustics should be avoided, as they destroy the healthy tissue as well as the diseased, cause much unnecessary pain and leave an irregular unsightly scar. The treatment of cancer is, therefore, a matter of prevention.

healthy habits of living, are now beginning to bear fruit.

More than half the children who died in infancy twenty-five years ago are brought safely through that period with a greatly increased chance of developing into normal, healthy citizens. An increasing number of school and pre-school children are being relieved at an early stage of those physical defects which so frequently prevented them from making proper physical or mental progress. That great army of children who faced life with a damaged vision from smallpox, a defective heart from diphtheria, an unhearing ear from scarlet fever, or a disability of lungs or mentality from whooping cough, are gradually disappearing through elimination of these diseases by modern protective methods. They will disappear just as rapidly as our citizens comprehend the value of such protection for their children.

TWO ASSURANCES

So it is that the thoughtful citizen attempts to equip his child to meet the problems life may bring. He can offer no more enduring assurance of success and happiness than a trained mind in a healthy body.

Lest he be called upon to answer to his child in future years, I suggest the parent answer to himself these questions now:

1.—Is my child receiving a periodical physical examination, so that physical defects will be found before they cause him a permanent disability?

2.—If these defects have been called to my attention, have I had them remedied promptly?

3.—Have I spent a single hour in the past year making sure he has the best diet and dietary supplements I can provide for him—realizing that man is made of what he eats, and that this is of the utmost importance in a growing child?

4.—How much time have I spent in supervision of his habits for healthy living?

5.—Have I obtained for him the protection against communicable disease which is freely offered in my city, so that he will not needlessly be exposed to death or permanent physical damage from this cause?

If the answer to these is in the affirmative, then you are well on the way to leaving your child the richest heritage on earth.

McKenney On Bridge

By WM. E. MCKENNEY
America's Card Authority

Lieut. Lew Mathe of Los Angeles, a navigator on one of our big bombers, was in New York recently just before flying overseas. With him was his wife, Lieut. Mrs. Mathe of the WACs. We played a little rubber bridge in my apartment, and the turn came for the two girls to play against the two men. How badly the girls treated us I will never publish, but if the WACs can learn bridge so well in four lessons (all Lieutenant Norine claims to have had) they must be a marvelous outfit.

Mrs. McKenney made a nice opening when she underled her ace of spades. Now wait until you hear what the WAC did to us! She won with the king of spades, returned the three, which Mrs. McKenney won with the ace, and now came the third spade. Lieutenant Norine won with the seven of trumps.

What was her next play? No, not the ace of diamonds, which would have set us one trick, nor a club, which would give us the balance of the tricks and our contract. She underled her ace and queen of diamonds! Mrs. McKenney won with the king and returned the fourth spade. Lew did his best. He played the ten of hearts, but the WAC over-trumped with the jack and down we went two tricks.

DOROTHY DIX SAYS—

Priority on Husband Should Cure Jealousy

Man's Dancing, Eating or Talking With Gay Young Girl Doesn't Mean That He Has Thoughts or Designs for Love

DEAR MISS DIX: I am 18 and have been married six months to an army officer. I know my husband loves me, or he wouldn't have married me, and I don't exactly envy any other girls their looks or their figures, but when he remarks about this girl being a good-looking, or that one having nice legs, I just get hopping mad. Of course I know he is teasing me, but I am afraid some day I'll just cut loose and say a lot of things I will be sorry for.

There is one girl in particular he kids me about. She is a married woman about 26 years old. When she is all powdered and painted up she looks about my age, but she isn't a trim shape. She is already fat. We were friends once, but she flirts with all the men she meets, and when my husband is starting saving how good-looking she is it made me hate her.

But even if she wasn't around, some other woman would be, and I know I can't keep him tied at home all the time with a blanket over his head so he won't see them. So will you please tell me what I should do.

PEASY.

ANSWER: Well, Peasy, you've got to realize the fact that the world is full of good-looking girls, and that there is no possible way of getting rid of them. They are here to stay and every year a new crop comes in, so the supply is inexhaustible. And you have to cure yourself of being jealous, or else spend your life being in torment.

Perhaps that is a difficult thing to do, especially if you are one of the possessive kind of women who think that her husband belongs to her, body and soul, and that he has no right to even glance at another female. Many wives are like that, and they spoil perfectly good marriages by always spying on their husbands and trying to keep them on the leash and suspecting them of having affairs with every woman they meet.

Now there is just one infallible remedy for jealousy, and that is to apply a little common sense to it. Realize in the first place that you have priority on your husband. If he hadn't preferred you to other women, he would not have married you. In the second place, take this truth to heart while you are still young, for it will save you a lot of useless tears that men don't take women as seriously as women take men, and that because a man enjoys looking at a pretty face, or talking to a gay and lively girl, or dancing with one whose step matches his, doesn't in the least mean that he is in love with her, or has any serious intentions regarding her.

Even married men's flirtations seldom have any significance. Generally they haven't a heart throb in them. They are just a man's way of amusing himself for an hour and of proving to himself that he is a devil among the ladies. If wives could only bring themselves to believe that and would cease their husbands about having fallen for some new "little cutie," instead of having hysterics over her, they would save themselves a lot of grief.

I am sorry for any woman who has married a man who is a tease and who thinks it funny to make her green-eyed. He is laying up trouble for both of them and paying for it.

ANSWER: There is no fixed period for mourning for either widows or widowers. It is purely a matter of personal taste and inclination, though the conventional attitude is that both men and women should show their departed mates' memory the respect of waiting a year before they replace them with other wives and husbands.

Perhaps the reason that widowers remarry earlier than widows is because men do the proposing, while women have to wait to be asked.

War Kitchen

By GAYNOR MADDOX

Banish the "blues" from Monday with some special good dessert. Frosted coffee bars are ideal for Monday dinners. They will pack well in lunch boxes, too. Use freshly brewed or leftover coffee. If you use leftover breakfast coffee, however, make the bars in the morning, before the coffee has a chance to grow stale.

COFFEE BARS

(Makes 45 1x3-inch bars)

One-quarter cup shortening, 1 cup brown sugar, 1 egg, 1/4 cup hot coffee, 1 1/4 cups sifted enriched flour, dash salt, 1/4 teaspoon soda, 1/4 teaspoon baking powder, 1/4 teaspoon cinnamon, 1/4 teaspoon nutmeg, 1/4 cup raisins (optional), 1/4 cup chopped nut meats.

Cream shortening. Add sugar gradually, creaming after each addition. Add egg and beat thoroughly. Add hot coffee gradually, mixing well. Sift together flour, salt, soda, baking powder and spices, and add to coffee mixture. Add raisins or currants and nut meats. Pour batter into well-greased 10x15 1/2-inch shallow baking pan. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for 15 to 20 minutes. Frost. Cut into 1x3-inch bars.

THIN FROSTING

One cup confectioner's sugar, 2 tablespoons warm coffee.

Add coffee gradually to sugar, mixing well. Will cover entire batch of 45 coffee bars.

Here's a nutritious and inexpensive treat for Monday:

SOYA APPLE BETTY

(Serves 6 to 8)

Two cups soft bread crumbs, 1/4 cup soya grits mixed with 1/4 cup water, 1/2 cup sugar, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 quart diced apples, 2 tablespoons melted fat, lemon juice, if desired.

Mix the bread crumbs and moistened soya. Then mix sugar, cinnamon and salt. Put a layer of the crumb-and-soya mixture in a greased baking dish, then a layer of apples. If apples are mild-flavored, you may wish to sprinkle a little lemon juice on them. Sprinkle on the dry seasonings. Repeat the layers until all ingredients are used, saving enough crumb-and-soya for a top.

ing the way to the divorce court. But the only way to deal with him is to laugh off his little affairs. Instead of crying over them. For when he finds that he can't get a rise out of you he will stop his kidding.

But a man must be awfully dumb who hasn't sense enough to know that a woman's sense of humor never includes her husband's admiration for other women.

WANTS DIVORCE

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: My husband and I are in our early thirties. We have been married almost ten years and have three children. Last year he told me he was in love with another woman and asked me to give him a divorce, but I refused because I want to make him suffer as much as he has made me.

The children are becoming hard to handle. They notice the bickering and coldness between their father and myself and it makes them restless and unhappy. Do you think I have been wrong in not giving him his freedom? He has always been a good provider and more than generous to us. Do you think it is fair to rear the children in such an atmosphere?

S. M.

ANSWER: When we speak of a husband and wife who have ceased to love each other, continuing to live together in order to make a home for their children, we don't mean just the keeping up of a house. We mean that they must be big enough and strong enough spiritually to live together in peace and harmony, and be, at least, able to give friendship and good will to each other.

But when a married couple have not only ceased to love each other, but one has come to love someone else and they live together in a bitter enmity that poisons the very air they breathe, and when their children are forced to listen to their quarrels and criminalizations against each other, they make a mockery of the "very word home. And their sacrifice is in vain.

Their children would be better off with either parent, or even with no parents at all, than in such a house of strife.

WIDOW

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a widow and am thinking of remarrying. In your opinion how long should a widow remain single? I have noticed that some of the prominent widowers of the country remarry from three days to two years after becoming widowers. For instance, Thomas Fortune Ryan married in 3 days; President Wilson in approximately 4 months; one prominent attorney in 5 months and another in 15 months. But I have no record for widows remarrying.

What is the proper time that a woman or man should wait before remarrying?

A READER.

ANSWER: There is no fixed period for mourning for either widows or widowers. It is purely a matter of personal taste and inclination, though the conventional attitude is that both men and women should show their departed mates' memory the respect of waiting a year before they replace them with other wives and husbands.

Perhaps the reason that widowers remarry earlier than widows is because men do the proposing, while women have to wait to be asked.

Gideon Panish

By Sinclair Lewis

THE STORY: When Dr. Gideon Panish, editor of Rural Adult Education and former Dean of Kin-kinnick College, learns that the present executives of the Heskett Rural School Foundation are not cashing in sufficiently on the Foundation funds, he sees infinite possibilities. He is offered and accepts the position of Managing Secretary.

CHAPTER XVII

It must not be thought that Dr. Panish did nothing at all as managing secretary of the Heskett Foundation. He took part in conferences, almost weekly conferences, promoted by colleges, libraries, municipal forums, state educational associations, and he unflinchingly told these conferences that rural education was a fine idea. He sat on committees, and if the sitting was not actual and physical, at least he had his name on the roster of committees, scores of them. He benevolently allowed students to use the pedagogical library which Miss Nimrock had collected, and he supervised the publication of three pamphlets prepared by university instructors who had concluded, after examining all the figures issued by the state governments, that teachers could be better paid and better treated. This was called Research.

He was fond of these pamphlets, because whenever his accounts looked a little confused, he could always put down "printing and promotion" as an item of expense.

It was indeed chiefly as a literary man that Dr. Panish markedly improved upon Miss Nimrock. He gave no larger financial grants for school-garden contests, but he increased fourfold the number of letters of advice sent out monthly to rural educators: advice on whether blackboards should be greenboards or blueboards, advice on reading poetry, advice on the established code for school janitors. He sat dictating oracles all day long, stopping only to steal his information from the publications of Columbia University, the Carnegie Foundation and the Association for Adult Education.

As a literary man, Dr. Panish also composed the Heskett Foundation's first aggressive series of fund-raising letters. Mr. Frisby insisted that the Foundation had enough funds so that it was not worth the bother "to circulate a lot of four-letter words that you couldn't pry a sawbuck loose from with dynamite," but Dr. Panish saw it more professionally, with the eye of vision and of the future.

The Biblical virtue of philanthropy was in this era turning into something far nobler than the impulsive handing out of a quarter. It was no longer emotion and friendliness, but Social Engineering, Planned Giving, with a purpose and a technique: it was Big Business. Dr. Panish saw that to-day the Good Samaritan would not do anything so silly and unsanitary as to pick up a man who had fallen among hit-run drivers. According to every rule of First Aid, the silly sympathy might have killed the poor fellow by moving him. Today the Samaritan would telephone to the nearest hospital and say, "Take care of him, and when I come again, I shall increase my subscription to your nationwide chain of hospitals, now headed by that great Organization Executive, Dr. Gideon Panish."

Thus dreamed the Doctor, tender heart and powerful brain running strong and true as he took his daily nap among the steel filing cabinets in his office.

All this colonization of hospitals was a yet merely in his prophetic vision. Not for some time yet would Organized Philanthropy rank eighth among the major industries of the United States. But already Dr. Panish could foresee a wedding of generosity and efficiency which would make the Crusader look like a bonus march, and perceive that it was going to be valuable for a scholar with a wife and child to be stationed close to this waxing flood of gold.

Despite Frisby's doubting, Dr. Panish prepared a new letter of solicitation for the H.R.S.F. Dear Friend of Education:

This letter isn't for you. We know from our huge files that you are sound on the subject of rural education; you realize that unless our country schools are just as well staffed and supplied as the snootiest city private school, there is no hope for our beloved America in its race against world anarchy.

But you have a friend who believes just as you and I do, but doesn't know about the HESKETT RURAL SCHOOL FOUNDATION. He doesn't realize that if he will take a mere $10.00 a year from his cigar money, he can make that sum do $1000 worth of imperative national good—and make him a proud Contributing Member of the H.R.S.F.

He'll get all our publications free, with the privilege of attending our Conferences and hearing the biggest men of the nation explain the solution of all rural problems. And you, dear Defender of Education, will be doing the greatest good to the country by telephoning to that Unknown Friend of Ours and giving him our address and greetings.

We can't locate your friend—YOU CAN! While you're reading this, why not lift the receiver and call his number and tell him—RIGHT THIS MINUTE—we want to send him FREE the four-color booklet "OUR SECRET SHAME."

This letter was sent not only to all members of the Foundation, but to all persons who had promisingly inquired about its work, and later sent to a general list. Dr. Killo thought it a rather shocking letter, and Mr. Frisby thought it funny. But, in the technical term, it "pulled." With the passion for exactitude and flapping charts which is part of the New Scientific Philanthropy, Dr. Panish calculated that it cost ten cents to send out the letter, including stationery, postage, mimeographing, filling in the booklet, overhead, and purchasing lists of persons known to have been philanthropic—which were rather coarsely known as "sucker lists," and which were sold commercially, like fly-paper. As the professional saviors put it, "If one per cent of the prospects on the sucker list kick through, the cost of the campaign is covered."

To the gratification of the Doctor's love for beautiful letters, 137 per cent of his prospects did "kick through," and showed their devotion to education by taking out Foundation memberships.

Even Mr. Frisby was impressed. Dr. Panish had been truly ordained as a priest of Scientific Philanthropy.

And as for the pamphlet Our Secret Shame which was sent out to prospects—that was Bernadine Nimrock's old tract, Statistics on Salaries and Attendance in District Schools, with a new cover on it.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn.—(CP)—Knox County clerk officials were taken aback somewhat when William Howard and Maggie Smith asked for a marriage license. A crowd formed and started asking questions.

"We've both been married before," said William, twisting his moustache. "I've got 11 great-grandchildren."

"And I have six myself," claimed Maggie. He gave his age as 77 and she as 79 before hustling off to get married.

SUNDAY WASHDAY

Minister Asks Prices Vigil

OTTAWA, Jan. 22.—(CP)—Finance minister Hsley and Donald Gordon, prices board chairman, Friday warned against complacency in Canada's anti-inflation battle and asked continued vigilance in keeping down the cost of living.

They spoke at a meeting of women's regional advisors committee chairmen of the prices board consumer branch with the national presidents of women's organizations.

Mr. Gordon reviewed board activities in dealing with the complaints of a shortage of children's underwear and said the board had believed an increase of 25 per cent in production of the underwear compared with a normal year should be sufficient.

If coupon rationing had been imposed the situation would have been worse, as every person with a coupon would have felt justified in purchasing underwear whether or not the need was urgent, he said.

Mr. Hsley said the Canadian price control program had been successful in general, although a continued fight against inflation was essential. He said that in some countries the cost of living had risen as much as 300 per cent since the war started.

WOMEN WATCHING

The finance minister said the price control policy instituted in December, 1941 would have broken down without the support of Canadian women in watching prices and avoiding hoarding.

Mr. Gordon said that while various groups endorsed price control, yet sections urged "relief" in respect to certain matters of interest to them. The wage-earner asked wage adjustments and farmers were inclined to ask that the injurious effects of low prices in past years be wiped out immediately because of improved economic conditions.

The ration which provided an equal share to all was not always the most equitable form. The use of certain articles varied from district to district and even from home to home.

If canned vegetables were to be rationed it would not be possible to give more than a can and a half per person per month.

There were great differences in use and need which would make that undesirable. Instead it was better to control distribution and feed in supplies to the areas of greatest need and greatest normal use.

TAKES SIGNALS OFFICERS' COURSE

Cadet Betty Dowler, R.C.A.F. (W.D.), daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Dowler of Mulhurst, Alta., and niece of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Dowler, 9821 90 avenue, Edmonton, who is one of the first airwomen to qualify as Wireless Operators of the Royal Canadian Air Force. She studies the inner workings of radio equipment while taking the R.C.A.F. signal officers' course at No. 3 Wireless School near Winnipeg.

Airwomen Training as Signals Officers, Soon to Release Men

By Flight Officer Frances Douglas

WINNIPEG, Jan. 22.—Women of the Royal Canadian Air Force, now being selected from the ranks for a training course as signals officers, soon will release men officers for communications duty in theatres of war. Need for men signals officers overseas has grown with mounting tempo of the air offensive.

The women will be trained at No. 3 Wireless School, R.C.A.F., near Winnipeg. Entering as cadets (unless already of officer rank), on completion of studies they will go to the Women's Division Officers' Training Course in Toronto before being commissioned.

The course is about six months. Ten per cent of it is technical, the rest devoted to signals procedure, administration, and equipment. During final weeks, 16 hours' flying as wireless operators in training gives them understanding of their part, as ground staff, in airborne signalling.

Each must send at least 20 words of Morse a minute and eight with the Aldis lamp. Other subjects include theory or radio, signals equipment, signals procedure, direction finding, and signals administration.

The airwomen take the same course as men. Joan Watkins of Vancouver was a "ham" radio operator and wireless expert in civilian life. She enlisted with the first group of Women's Division Wireless Operators, and was transferred to the Officers' course, commissioned as first woman officer of the Signals Branch, R.C.A.F., and posted overseas.

Cadets now on course also have special qualifications. Mary Gordon of Toronto, who enlisted as an equipment assistant, had taken a radio technique course in her final year at the University of Toronto. After she got her B.A. she did radio test work for the Inspection Board of the United Kingdom in Canada. (She is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Molyneux Gordon, 259 Dunvegan Road, Toronto).

Betty Dowler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Dowler of Mulhurst, Alta., and niece of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Dowler of Edmonton, enlisted as a clerk general and studied for a "sparks" badge while doing office work at a R.C.A.F. station in Eastern Canada. She was one of the first women to qualify as a Wireless Operator (Ground).

Cadet Dorothy Armstrong of Regina, shortly after war broke out, while visiting friends in Newfoundland, went to work as a civilian in the code and cipher branch of the R.C.A.F. there. Later, she enlisted, went to Canada for basic training, and found herself back at the same desk in a uniform.

Cadets Alma Lauer of Dysart, Saskatchewan and Nellie Ross of Vancouver enlisted as equipment assistants, transferred to wireless, and became instructors at Montreal's big R.C.A.F. Wireless School before entering the signals course.

St. Faith's W.A. Installs Officers
The Rev. R. M. Watts conducted the installation of the newly elected officers of the St. Faith's W.A. evening group. After the installation Mrs. S. F. Tackaberry, president of the Diocese W. A. presented Mrs. J. W. Cooper with a life member's pin. Mrs. Currie, president of the afternoon group, presented her with the certificate of life membership.

At the conclusion of the services the evening group held its regular meeting with members of the afternoon group as special guests. Miss Evelyn Ridell gave a paper on Chile and the work the church is doing there.

Officers installed were Mrs. L. M. Watts, honorary president; Mrs. J. Cleary, president; Mrs. C. J. Asp, secretary; Mrs. W. Shillabeer, treasurer; Mrs. R. Smith, Dorcas and social service; Miss E. Smith, flowers and sick visiting; and Mrs. A. Cotter, war services.

Bad Coughs Yield Quickly To This Home Mixture

Surprisingly Quick Relief. No Coughing. Saves Money.

Here's a medicine for coughs due to colds that you mix in your own kitchen. It's so easy to prepare that anyone can do it. Once tried, you'll never again be without it in your home. Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water for 10 minutes, until dissolved. No cooking needed. No trouble at all. Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup. Then get 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex from any drugstore, put it into a 16 oz. bottle, and add your syrup. This gives you 16 ounces—a family supply—of really excellent cough medicine. It's thrifty, too—about four times as much for your money. And children take it willingly, because it tastes so good. This home mixture takes right hold of a cough in a way that really satisfies. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and helps clear the air passages. Eases the soreness, and lets you rest at night. Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, a most reliable agent for soothing throat and bronchial membranes. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

All Saints Congregation to Burn Mortgage at Monday Ceremony

To Burn Mortgage

The Rev. Canon A. M. Trendell, rector of All Saints Cathedral, who will preside at a service Monday night at which the church mortgage will be burned.

The first Anglican church established in Alberta, the Cathedral Church of All Saints, which was once destroyed by fire, will be the scene of a ceremony Monday night when the church mortgage will be burned in the presence of the congregation.

In 1875 the Rev. William Newton, who later became Canon Newton, left Ontario and after travelling for five months reached Fort Edmonton equipped with "a tent, a surplus, a prayer book and a Bible." There were few residents, and they were nearly all employees of the Hudson's Bay Company. He found an unfurnished house which he fitted up as a church and a dwelling house, and which he later called the "Hermitage." This was situated on the North Saskatchewan river about seven miles below the present city site.

In 1877 the first church was built on a site now known as the corner of 121 street and 100 avenue.

The church was built entirely by voluntary labor and the total cost was $2,500. It was later found advisable to move All Saints to a location at 106 street and 99 avenue. In 1891 the Rev. Charles Cunningham was placed in charge of the parish. Canon Newton continued to live at the Hermitage where he conducted services.

STEADY GROWTH

The steady growth of the settlement made the need for a larger church and in 1895 the present site at 103 street was purchased. The new church was built and opened for services Jan. 6, 1896.

In 1897 the Rev. Henry Allen Gray was appointed to the parish, and during his incumbency the work gradually grew in importance. A parish hall was built.

In the fall of 1918 a very serious influenza epidemic necessitated the closing of schools and churches and delayed some of the activities.

No sooner was the epidemic over than the fire occurred which completely destroyed the church and parish hall.

LAY CORNER STONE
Insurance on the church was small and was not even sufficient to cover liabilities. For a time services were held in the basement of a building on Jasper avenue. After many setbacks the corner stone for a new church building was laid on Sept. 17, 1921.

It was decided to complete the crypt and finish the superstructure of the church later.

When the Rev. Canon A. M. Trendell, present rector was appointed in 1940 the mortgage on the church was $17,000. This has been gradually reduced and by Dec. 31, 1943 it stood at $250. During the first two weeks of the new year the rest of the money was raised and the mortgage paid in full.

Regular services will be held in the Gospel Hall on Sunday.

Chancellor George P. Gilmour, McMaster University, Hamilton, Ont., will conduct the Sunday morning service in First Baptist church. In the evening the Rev. Daniel Young, B.A., will speak on "A Religion of Hearsay."

The Rev. W. M. Nainby will conduct services in Holy Trinity church Sunday.

The Rev. R. S. Faulk will conduct services in St. Peter's Westmount church Sunday. An anniversary "at home" will be held Tuesday at 8:30 p.m. for any former members and friends wishing to attend.

Leslie Kilborn, M.A., M.D., Ph.D., member of the team conducting the University Christian Mission, will be guest speaker at the morning service in McDougall church. At the evening service Lt. J. T. Burchill, B.A., R.C.A.F., chaplain, will be guest preacher.

The Honor Roll will be read at both services in Christ church Sunday. The Rev. E. S. Gittley, B.A., L.Th., will be in charge and his morning sermon will be "Lord, Save Me!"

Annual Meeting

The Rev. Dr. A. K. McMinn, B.A., who will preside at the annual meeting of McDougall United Church Tuesday, January 25, at 8 p.m.

Chaplain Walter C. Lundberg, U.S.A.A.F., will be guest preacher at the morning service in Augustana Lutheran church. The evening service will be conducted by the Luther League with Captain James Cox, Chaplain of the U.S.A.A.F., as guest preacher.

The Rev. S. Matthews will conduct the service in City Temple of Spiritualism Sunday at 7:30 p.m.

The evening service in Central Lutheran church will be conducted by members of the Young People's League. At the morning service the Rev. Milton Johnson will speak on "Help of the Helpless."

"Truth" is the subject of sermons to be delivered in the Christian Science church Sunday.

The Rev. G. R. Dawe, B.Th., will conduct Sunday services in Norwood Regular Baptist church. Title of his morning sermon is "Every Saint Must Have a Sanctuary," and in the evening he will speak on "Great Words of the Gospel—Atonement."

Miss Gertrude Rutherford, principal of the United church Training School for Women, and a member of the team conducting the Christian Mission at the University of Alberta, will speak at the morning service in Metropolitan United church. At the evening worship the Rev. R. M. Thompson will preach the second in a series of sermons on "Religion," taking as his theme, "A Religion that Grips." After church the young people will meet for a social evening. The annual congregational meeting will be held Jan. 26 at 8 p.m.

Dr. Leslie Kilborn internationally known scholar of culture and anthropology of Central Asia will be guest preacher at Robertson United church Sunday. Born in China, Dr. Kilborn is the son of a missionary doctor and is himself a member of a medical mission. He is a graduate of the University of Toronto and spent some years in China where he was editor of the Journal of the West China Board Research Society. The Rev. J. B. M. Armour, will conduct the morning service.

TODAY'S MESSAGE

By MISS HELEN FERRIS
Edmonton

A Message to Parents

"Suffer the little children to come unto Me..."
—Luke 18:16.

JESUS is acclaimed the greatest lover of children the world has ever known. His admonition to parents has always been to bring their little ones to Him, and His plea is even more urgent today.

What, then, does it mean to bring our children to Christ? It means that we commit them to the loving care of a Friend who will never forsake them, who will be their constant Companion and Guide throughout life. It means that they will never be beaten by life—no obstacle will be insurmountable to them, no adversity wholly crushing, no grief utterly insupportable—when they have His comfort and strength and power to sustain them.

Children come to know and love their Saviour best through the Sunday School, and I think it is a mistaken idea to "wait until they're older" to begin this religious education. It is relatively easy for them to picture an unseen Friend and believe in His presence at the stage when their individual little worlds are peopled with the vivid creations of their own imagination. But when they have grown up and learned to distinguish fact from fancy, to believe chiefly in the things they can prove by sight, touch, and sound, it is difficult for boys and girls without previous religious training to conjure a mental image and feel that it is real. By this time they have become self-conscious about religion; they are embarrassed by any reference to it, and consequently they erect a barrier between themselves and any would-be helper. On the other hand, to the young people who have been taught from childhood to share all their experiences with God through prayer, He has become a living Personality, close and real and dear, their partner in life.

Parents whose sons and daughters have been trained in Christian principles from childhood need not worry when these young people go out into the world. They will meet temptation and sin, of course, for such conditions are always present, but they have a sure shield against evil; the roots of wholesome, constructive living are deep and firm in their natures and no passing temptations can destroy them. They will not lose their way in the first flush of freedom during wartime, because they have ideals to live by that will not fail them. They will not be afraid in battle, for theirs is the confident faith of the young man who told his chaplain, "I never leave my room in the morning to fly my plane without saying my prayers, and then I know that God will be with me."

The children of today are our citizens of tomorrow. Let us fit them now to take their place in the better world which we believe will come out of this war. Let us begin by sending them to Sunday School.

My Day

BY ELEANOR ROOSEVELT

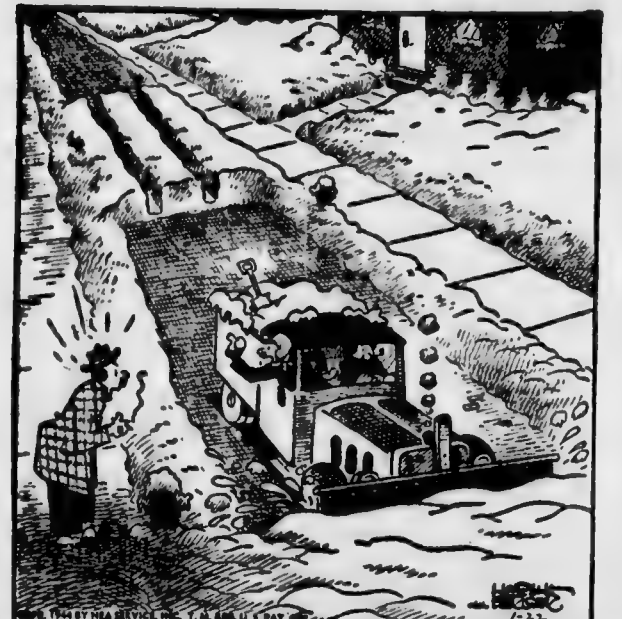

WASHINGTON — Yesterday we had several people at lunch with us. At seven o'clock, I went to speak at a regular Sunday evening supper group at St. John's church. After that I joined other members of our family at the Attorney General and Mrs. Biddle's house to hear Mr. George Biddle tell of his experi-

Rutgers University has been instrumental in arranging. I shall get into New York City very late this evening, but as I have a few people to see there tomorrow morning, it seemed better to go on tonight than to stay in New Brunswick. I was much interested in talking to Miss Mary Pickford the other day when she told me that she had adopted two children, a seven year old boy and a baby girl who is now 17 months old. I had just received a letter in the mail which drew to my attention the fact that while many people were willing to adopt babies, or children under three or four years old, the institutions found it very difficult to place children over six. The writer asked me if I would not suggest to people who have lost loved ones in this war, that it would be a great advantage if they would take a child into their homes, and bring him up in memory of the one who is not returning.

It seems to me a wonderful idea, although I realize that when people have lost members of the family who are grown, it may be almost impossible to go back to the days and conditions of life in which they were prepared to bring up youngsters. Even taking in a child in his teens means adjusting a household to many things which may have been completely abandoned after one's own children have grown up. But there may be other families where young people are still part of the household, and I imagine that it might ease the hearts of some mothers and fathers to feel that in memory of the child they loved, they are giving another child the opportunity to enjoy the benefits of a real home.

My correspondent is a man, a business man evidently, from Pittsburgh, Pa. I want to quote one sentence of his letter here: "The gold star which is the symbol of death and tragedy could be replaced by a silver which will be the symbol of life and happiness." Real happiness and a new life for some child who must feel lonely and abandoned.

The green peas which are so familiar to everyone are an important member of the family leguminosae. They were originally a native of Southern Europe and Asia, and have probably been used for food in the Orient for thousands of years. Even in Europe they were cultivated years before the dawn of the Christian Era. These seeds have been found in the lake dwellings of Switzerland showing that they were used as a food during the Bronze Age.

This hardy annual is found with two main types: one with a wrinkled seed and one with a smooth contour. While the plants are usually grown for seeds, there are several varieties with thick green edible pods which may be eaten very much as we use green beans, and which were extensively used in Europe, but have not been well introduced in this country. The vines in the different varieties may vary from 12 inches to 12 feet in length.

The average shelled green pea contains 74.5 per cent water, 7 per cent protein, 5.5 per cent fat, 15 per cent carbohydrate, 1 per cent ash, containing good amounts of potassium, sodium, magnesium, phosphorus and sulphur. The dried pea contains a smaller amount of water, containing only about 15 per cent. It contains a larger amount of protein, approximately 22.5 per cent, and 1.8 per cent carbohydrate 52 per cent, and mineral matter 2.5 per cent.

The fresh or canned green peas are especially valuable because they contain good amounts of vitamins A, B and C. The canned variety may be used to advantage in regions where other fresh vegetables are not obtainable. The dried peas may be cooked in soups or baked like dried beans. They should be considered a starchy vegetable and not used at the same time with acid foods or with proteins. The very small green pea may be classed among the non-starchy vegetables, although as the pea becomes more mature it contains a larger amount of starch. Here are a few recipes which you will find interesting.

FRENCH STYLE PEAS

Wash one head of lettuce, thoroughly drain, and chop into small pieces. Add one cup of water and two pounds of peas, weighed before shelling. Cover and simmer for thirty minutes. If canned peas are used, the lettuce should be cooked for fifteen minutes before adding the peas. When cooked, remove from the fire, add butter and seasoning and serve.

BACON WITH PEAS

Shell one pound of peas and cover with boiling water. Add a half teaspoonful of finely chopped mint leaves. Cook for twenty minutes and add three strips of bacon which should first be finely minced and browned in a skillet. Mix and serve immediately.

PEAS WITH VEGETABLES

Clean and dice six new potatoes, one bunch of carrots and two turnips. Cook for twenty minutes and all one can of peas. If fresh peas are used, shell two pounds and add at the beginning. Cook until the carrots are tender. Add butter and serve.

Our government at this time says that we should eat at least two vegetables a day, and I have a special article for my readers, entitled "Vegetable Recipes" which I shall be pleased to send to anyone writing for it. Just address your request to McCoy Health Service in care of this newspaper, enclosing a large self-addressed envelope and ten cents in stamps.

All questions regarding health and diet will be answered. Large, stamped, self-addressed envelope must be enclosed. Write on one side of paper only. Letters must not exceed 150 words. Address McCoy Health Service, The McCoy Building, 1151 West 6th Street, Los Angeles, Calif.

Sees Japs' Defeat In 12 to 18 Months
After Reich Falls
MONTREAL, Jan. 22.—(CP)—Sir Frederic Whyte, British author and far-east expert, said yesterday in a press interview that "Japan will fold up within 12 to 18 months after the defeat of Germany and, before that, will try to wriggle out and escape the full might of the combined United Nations' resources."

Sir Frederic, who attended the Atlantic City meeting last week on far-eastern problems, added "in my opinion next fall will mark the end of Nazi military might."

About the so-called second front, he said "call the coming invasion of Europe what you like but Britain held the first front in 1939, Russia the second and now we have the front in Italy."

Widow, Starved, Clad in Rags, Worth Million
PITTSBURGH, Jan. 22.—(CP)—An amazing story of a 65-year-old widow, worth almost $1,000,000 but clad in rags and weak from hunger, was disclosed yesterday in the Allegheny county court.

The woman, Mrs. Dora Grace Peregrine, widow of a former official of the Armstrong Cork Company, retired to her two-story home here after her husband's death in 1929.

A nephew, Frank E. Grace, of New Castle, in instituting court action, told of a visit several weeks ago to his aunt's home and finding her "like a person starved."

In this house Grace said he found $200,000 in uncashed dividend cheques which had accumulated over the years from stocks and other securities.

The court was told Mrs. Peregrine's estate now is worth $700,000 or more and that in addition she is receiving a life income from a $50,000 estate. Approximately $65,000 was found in a savings account.

Defer Judgment On Perjury Appeal
Judgment was reserved by the appellate division of the Alberta Supreme Court in the appeal brought by Mike Babicz, John Poloway, Louis Polchuk and William Woywika, Weasel Creek district residents, against conviction and two years' less-one-day sentences imposed on them by Mr. Justice G. B. O'Connor on charges of conspiring to commit perjury and of obstructing the course of justice.

The charges arose out of evidence given in a divorce action brought by Babicz against his wife Caroline Babicz, and followed an investigation by the R.C.M.P. directed by Mr. Justice A. F. Ewing as to the veracity of evidence given by witnesses at the divorce trial.

Monday morning the hearing of the appeal by Sam Desjarlais, Conklin district, Cree Indian, will open at the court house. He is appealing from jury conviction and death sentence imposed by Mr. Justice C. C. McLaurin.

Desjarlais was found guilty of the murder of Karl Hemmingsen, Monday River district trapper, and was sentenced to hang. Pending hearing of the appeal the date of execution was postponed until March 17.

Appeal by George Desjarlais, also convicted of murder, will follow the disposition of that of his cousin Sam.

Royal Alexandra Hospital Shows Deficit of $3,400 On Operations Last Year

Total revenue collected by the Royal Alexandra hospital for the year ended December 31, 1943, amounted to $628,147 with operational costs amounting to $631,587, leaving a deficit on operation of $3,440 assuming that 100 per cent of accounts payable for the year are collected, it was reported by Dr. A. F. Anderson at the annual meeting of the Edmonton Hospital Board held Friday.

Vernon Pearson was elected chairman of the board for 1944, with Alfred Farnilo, the retiring chairman, elected vice-chairman. Murray W. Ross was re-elected secretary of the board.

The following were named to the executive committee: A. Farnilo, A. Fraser Duncan, K.C., Dr. Mary Hunter, Dr. P. H. Sprague, Guy Patterson, K.C., and Ald. F. J. Mitchell.

PROPERTY COMMITTEE

Members of the property committee will be: S. A. Dickson, K.C., Miss Isabel MacMillan, Ald. Sidney Parsons, Dr. W. A. Atkinson, Mrs. C. A. McManus, John Dover and George A. Campbell.

Analyzing the financial statement for 1943, Dr. Anderson said that $52,668 represented hospital earnings, with $9,128 coming in from sundry earnings, and $66,533 from the adjusted government grant.

To meet contingencies for uncollected accounts it was decided to allow $8,000 monthly, which would bring the deficit for the year to $39,440.

He pointed out that the operation cost per patient day for the year was $3.86.

During the year the hospital collected more than $100,000 on old outstanding accounts, and total collections were 101 1/3 per cent of the year's earnings. He said that these collections, together with the sundry earnings and the earned government grant gave a cash revenue of $635,465, which after deducting the cost of operation, $631,587, left a cash surplus of $3,878.

As a result of this showing the hospital did not require any of the allocated grant of $90,000 in order to balance the budget.

SEEK $75,000 CARRYOVER

Dr. Anderson intimated that he was negotiating with the city commissioners for authority to carry over $75,000 of this grant to renewal reserve account. In 1942 $35,000 was carried over. If the request is acceded to by the commissioners it will leave in the renewal account $111,000 which will shortly be required for renewal of the heating system at the plant.

Superintendent of nurses M. S. Fraser, R.N., reported that on December 31 last the nursing staff numbered 252 compared with 234 on the same date last year.

She reported also that 1943 was a very difficult one because of the occasional shortage of nurses, particularly during July and August. She said that the total number of illness days for the entire nursing staff was 2,226 compared with 2,048 in 1942, and 3,132 days in 1941.

The latest available reports, she said, showed that 55 graduate nurses of the hospital were on active war duty with the three services, and also in South Africa. There is also one in the U.S. Army, and one with the U.S. Navy.

COLLECTIONS $560,000

Reporting on the business office and collections, W. Ross, secretary-treasurer, stated that in 1943 the collections were $560,000 compared with $459,300 in 1942, $384,300 in 1941 and $362,400 in 1940.

He warned that in spite of the amount of cash collected in 1943 the hospital still lost nearly $100,000 on its operations. Present rates of services, he said, do not provide nearly enough revenue to cover expenses. The 1943 collections were made on a large degree on receivable accounts built up in previous years. These accounts are now being reduced instead of increased, and therefore this source of cash income is being steadily removed.

On the motion of Ald. S. Parsons a vote of thanks to the Women's Auxiliary of the hospital was passed following the presentation of the annual report of the auxiliary by Dr. Anderson.

Rooms Sought For A.F.U. Delegates

The Alberta Farmers' Union, through its secretary, H. E. Nichols, has issued an appeal to all citizens who can rent temporary sleeping accommodation for two or three nights next week, to communicate with the A.F.U. office, telephone 25965, immediately.

The union's annual convention is to be held here next Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, and it will be impossible for delegates, who will attend from all parts of the province, to obtain rooms for the three-day period. Regular rates will be paid for accommodation received.

At night, persons may register available accommodation by phoning 73829 or 34876.

C.P. Places Order For 70 Locomotives

MONTREAL, Jan. 22.—Seventy locomotives and 2,140 freight cars, including steel-sheathed box cars, triple-hopper and gondola cars and overhead refrigerator cars—have been ordered by the Canadian Pacific Railway Company to ease the burden on motive power and rolling stock, hard pressed in meeting the demands of war transportation, it was announced Friday by W. M. Neal, vice-president of the company. The contracts have been let to firms in Montreal, in Kingston and Hamilton in Ontario and in New Glasgow, Nova Scotia. In addition to the outside contracts an order for 50 cabooses has been placed with the company's own Angus Shops in Montreal.

Warns Against Playing on River

Chief Constable Reginald Jennings Saturday issued a warning against small children playing on the river after police officers sent a number of youngsters home that were found on the river Friday afternoon.

Ice on the Saskatchewan river is particularly dangerous this year, Chief Jennings said. Absence of heavy frosts has caused several channels of open water along the edges. The chief appeals to parents to keep their children off the river.

Eastern Officer Is Visiting City

Maj. R. White, director of publicity for the Canadian Army at Ottawa, is an Edmonton visitor. Maj. J. Howard Gainer, M.C., director of recruiting for M.D. 13, is with Maj. White. The officers are conferring with army officers here.

Prospectors Asked To Register Here

The outlook for investigation and prospecting in the North and Northwest this year, will probably require the services of qualified prospectors. Already several mining groups have intimated their intention of coming into this area.

To meet the situation, it has been considered advisable to canvass the field, and register all prospectors who are available for this work. The Chamber of Mines office, located on the ground floor of the McLeod Building, will arrange for this registration, and prospectors should call and register.

Also, it has been considered advisable to ascertain whether there are a sufficient number of bona fide prospectors who would like to attend prospecting classes. If a sufficient number can be enrolled, to justify the expenditures, these classes will be started and a central classroom arranged for. Any one interested, should contact Dr. J. A. Allan, University of Alberta, or the Chamber of Mines, No. 1, McLeod Building.

St. Stephen's Holds Annual Meeting

With the rector, Canon J. C. Matthews, in the chair, the annual meeting of St. Stephen's Anglican church, 96 street and 109 avenue, was held in the church hall, Friday night.

After hearing reports from leaders of 12 church organizations, an election of officers was held, with the following being named to office: J. Watson, people's warden; rector's warden, H. Horton; and lay delegates to Synod, L. G. G. Moore, H. Allen and F. Swallow.

Elected to the vestry committee were H. Allen, W. Petherbridge, E. Patterson, W. Whiting, Harry Dodd, W. J. Greene, Mrs. Ralph Watson, Mrs. J. E. Slater, Mrs. Margaret Wright and Mrs. Forbes.

Additional Church News

The Rev. T. J. Matthews of Coaticook will preach the morning sermon in St. Stephen's church Sunday.

"What Is The Future For Foreign Missions?" and "How Virtues Become Vices," are the titles of sermons to be delivered Sunday by the Rev. E. T. Scragg, minister of Wesley United church, at services Sunday.

The Rev. W. P. Remington, Bishop of Eastern Oregon, will deliver the sermon Sunday morning at the service in All Saints' Cathedral. Squadron Leader J. The Rev. Elgin Turnbull, B.A., B.D., will conduct services in Knox church Sunday. "Not Ashamed of the Gospel" is the title of his morning sermon and in the evening he will speak on "Victims of the Martyr Complex."

The North Alberta Auxiliary of the British and Foreign Bible Society in Canada and Newfoundland is one of 15 auxiliaries in Canada organized to collect funds for the world wide service of the Bible Society. Such funds enable the society to maintain the supply of Scriptures to the far flung foreign mission fields of Canada's churches at prices the poor can afford to pay; to provide presentation to all men and women in active service in H.M.S. Forces, and Scriptures for prison and internment camps; to provide Testaments in waterproof envelopes for all life boats and rafts of H.M. Navy, Merchant Marine and of aircraft flying over the seven seas; and now preparing stocks of Scriptures in the scores of languages of the enemy-occupied countries of Europe and the Far East in readiness for the day of peace, to stay the famine of God's Word in these lands. During 1943 contributions were considerably in excess of the previous year. The total amount of contributions, $15,370.22, were remitted to the society's headquarters in Toronto. There were no liabilities outstanding.

Youth Director Guest Speaker At "Y" Meeting

R. E. G. Davis, director of the Canadian Youth Commission, will arrive in Edmonton Sunday for a two-day visit, during which time he will meet with Reg. T. Rose, chairman of the Alberta Co-Operating Committee, with youth leaders and also attend a meeting of the commission's National Education Committee, under the chairmanship of Dr. O. Fred McNally.

Tuesday evening, Jan. 23, Mr. Davis will be guest speaker at the annual meeting of the Young Men's Christian Association.

Mr. Davis was formerly a member of the national council staff of the Y.M.C.A. of Canada. He has had wide experience in youth work, is a graduate of McGill University, with post graduate work at Columbia, and is also dean of the well-known Institute of Politics and Economics, conducted annually at Lake Couchiching, Ontario.

POST-WAR PROBLEMS

The Canadian Youth Commission was organized to "formulate proposals relative to the welfare of Canadian Youth (15 to 24 years of age) in the post-war period and to promote their acceptance by government and public and private agencies which have responsibilities in this field. . . . the focus of its attention is that of planning in concrete terms to meet basic youth needs."

The commission is widely representative of all creeds, and agencies and includes among its members Sidney E. Smith, president of the University of Manitoba, who is chairman; Senator Leon-Mercier, Gouin, Montreal, and H. L. Keenleyside, Department of External Affairs, Ottawa, vice chairman; E. A. Corbett, director, Canadian Association for Adult Education, Toronto, and G. F. McNally, deputy minister of education, Alberta.

As a result of the activities of study groups all over Canada, the commission will hold a series of youth hearings, perhaps in the spring, at which time youth will make its views heard in respect to its outlook for the post-war period as well as those who are interested in youth.

Milder Weather To Continue Here

No immediate change in Edmonton's fair and mild weather conditions is foreseen for the week-end. The temperature continues to be surprisingly springlike. Friday's maximum was 36 degrees, and the overnight low 17 degrees. Official reading at 8:30 a.m. Saturday was 21 degrees, and the forecast for the week-end is "fair and comparatively mild."

SUPERMAN

by JERRY SIEGEL and JOE SHUSTER

JUDY KING HAS ASKED SUPERMAN TO FIND OUT WHICH OF HER FOUR BOY FRIENDS, RESPECTIVELY IN THE ARMY, NAVY, COAST GUARD AND MARINES IS DOING THE BEST JOB FOR HIS COUNTRY - SO THAT JUDY CAN DECIDE WHICH BRANCH OF THE SERVICE TO JOIN.

THE FIRST PART OF MY JOB -- TO SEE HOW TOM JONES AND THE ARMY ARE MAKING OUT!

LOOK -- DIVING TOWARD US IS IT A NAZI PLANE ??

NO IT'S...

SUPERMAN!

THANKS FOR NOT WASTING ANY BULLETS ON ME!

SO JUDY SENT YOU, EH? WELL, YOU CAN TELL HER IF SHE JOINS ANYTHING BUT THE WACS AND I AM WASHED UP!

FUNNY BUT DICK, HARRY AND BILL SAY THE SAME THING ABOUT THEIR OUTFITS!

BUT TOM'S RIGHT! THE ARMY'S THE REAL THING!

AND AT THIS VERY MOMENT A NAZI PATROL ADVANCES CAUTIOUSLY UP A MOUNTAIN ROAD.

WE MUST BLAST THIS ONE ENEMY POSITION TO CLEAR THE WAY FOR OUR COUNTER-ATTACK.

A STRONG NAZI DETACHMENT COMING UP! YOU'RE BADLY OUTNUMBERED! THIS LOOKS LIKE A JOB FOR SUPERMAN.

THANKS, PAL -- BUT SIT TIGHT! WE'LL SHOW YOU HOW THE ARMY OPERATES!

A PLEASURE!

WHILE TOM'S BUDDY MANS THE MACHINE GUN, TOM CRAWLS AWAY FROM THE POSITION...

WISH ME LUCK!

I DO... SINCERELY!

AND PRESENTLY FROM BEHIND THE GERMAN PATROL...

TAKE YOUR CHOICE! THAT WAY -- MACHINE GUN BULLETS, THIS WAY -- GRENADES!

243 CALLING HEADQUARTERS! PASS BELOW HILL NOW WIDE OPEN, SIR! THIS LOOKS LIKE THE SPEAR-HEAD FOR OUR NEW ADVANCE, SIR!
